Western Challenge Is Sent Khrushchev

Summit Series Offered If First Parley Fruitful

PARIS (AP) — The West challenged Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Monday night to help make an April summit meeting in Paris fruitful enough to warrant a whole series of such conferences on world troubles.

President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle made it plain they want a wide-open, no-topics-barred meeting at the top. Through their ambassadors they told the Soviet Union there could be future summit meetings in Moscow, London or Washington if such talks are worthwhile.

But the three leaders made clear they would not surrender any basic rights in divided West Berlin, crucial issue facing the East-West meeting.

Limited To Big Four

The three also ruled out participation at the summit by any except the four major powers. This meant no attendance by Red China, East or West Germany or neutral India. The West proposed April 27 as the first summit date.

Western spokesmen said they believed the place and date suggested would be acceptable to Khrushchev. However, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko made no comment when the invitations were delivered in Moscow.

Andrew H. Berding, U.S. assistant secretary of state, estimated the length of the Paris summit meeting in "terms of days, not weeks."

The foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy propose to revive long neglected disarmament negotiations with the Soviet Union and four other Communist nations in Geneva about March 15. Such talks may provide a test of Soviet intentions before the Paris summit.

Eisenhower Pleased

Eisenhower, De Gaulle, and Mcmillan, along with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer also called for a Paris meeting next month on means of preventing a division of Western Europe into competing economic blocs and on furthering the growth of underdeveloped countries.

The President was described as very pleased about developments marking the climax of his grueling 11-nation tour. Minutes after publication of the conclusions of the Western summit he took off for Spain. Tuesday he visits Morocco, and then heads for home.

Ike Is Proposed As Nobel Peace Prize Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was proposed Monday by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), as a candidate for the Nobel Peace Prize.

Keating said in a statement the prize, which is awarded annually, should go to Eisenhower as "the world's pre - eminent man of peace."

Hundreds Pass Williams' Bier

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — An unbroken line of people filed through the rotunda of civil courthouse Monday for a last look at the thin face and flowing white hair of Walter Washington (Old Reb) Williams, the last veteran of the Civil War.

He died Saturday at the age of 117. A blood clot in the large vessel leading to the brain, brought on perhaps by his fourth attack of pneumonia this year, killed him.

President Eisenhower proclaimed the nation to be in mourning until he is buried Wednesday near his old home at Franklin, Tex. The body was moved to the civil courthouse Monday to lie in state 48 hours.

The body was dressed in a gray Confederate general's uniform with a star on each side of the collar. The coffin was blue and gray and draped with a Confederate flag.

Williams never got beyond the rank of private during the time he claimed he served in the Confederate Army. Former Gov. Allan Shivers appointed him colonel on his staff and the Sons of the Confederacy gave him the general's uniform.

Townsend, 44, Belgian Girl, 20, Honeymooning

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Peter Townsend, former suitor of Princess Margaret of Britain, married Marie - Luce Jamagne, who is less than half his age, at a civil ceremony Monday.

They set off by automobile for France and a honeymoon. They are expected later to settle in Paris.

Townsend, 44, went to pains to keep secret his nuptials with the 20-year-old daughter of a rich Belgian tobacco merchant.

He let the word spread that he would marry in January. He took City Hall officials into his confidence. He had Marie-Luce change her legal residence to the suburb in which the wedding took place to comply with official requirements. He even timed the wedding to avoid publicity—just after noon when all the City Hall staff had gone to lunch.

The former group captain in the British Royal Air Force met Marie-Luce at a fashionable riding club here at the time his romance with Margaret was front-page news.

But Townsend was a divorced man and the father of two children and the Church of England opposes remarriage of divorced persons whose former spouses are still living. Margaret thus reluctantly announced in 1955 her decision not to marry the divorced commoner.

Watch Out For Gyp Seller, Buying Public Advised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watch out for the salesman who tells you you've won a contest or that your house has been selected for a demonstration, a Federal Trade Commission official advised housewives Monday.

Watch out even for the encyclopedia salesman who flashes a letter from Johnny's teacher indicating his education would be advanced by the books.

"A little payola may be involved," said Daniel J. Murphy, assistant director of FTC's Bureau of Litigation.

He spoke at a meeting of 47 civic, consumer and welfare group representatives, opening a government drive against false advertising and fraudulent selling practices.

Murphy suggested some other alerting signs for the housewife who answers the telephone or doorbell:

The salesman who calls himself some fancy name, other than a salesman, and tells you that you have been selected to purchase new and revolutionary cooking utensils.

"The salesman with one foot in your door claiming to be a representative of the city government (whose) only desire is to make a fire prevention talk but whose real purpose is to sell fire alarm systems.

"Representatives of furnace manufacturers whose sales crews masquerade as inspectors and under the guise of a safety campaign deliberately sabotage a householder's furnace.

Snow Covers Large Section Of Northeast

By The Associated Press

Snow blanketed a wide section of the nation's Northeast Monday, covering an area from the Great Lakes east through Pennsylvania and West Virginia, through Maryland and New Jersey and into southern New England.

The fall generally was 2 to 3 inches. But a heavier fall, up to 5 inches in places, occurred in western Pennsylvania.

Northern New Jersey reported sharp winds swept in with the storm. It brought icy highways and hazardous driving conditions.

Northeastern Utah's Strawberry Valley, and Sevier Summit in central Utah, also had snow.

There was a light fall, too, in eastern Iowa, parts of Illinois, the Dakotas, western Nevada and high slopes of the Pacific Northwest.

Union Hails Move; Talks Set Sunday

Industry And USW Teams To Continue Mediation Sessions

WASHINGTON (AP)— Industry representatives agreed Monday to hold separate company-by-company bargaining in the deadlocked steel dispute.

The decision was greeted as a victory by the United Steelworkers Union, whose President David J. McDonald told reporters:

"What the union has been wanting right along has been agreed to."

"McDonald has argued that the industry's top bargaining team, headed by R. Conrad Cooper, has lacked the power to make any concessions and that talks with Cooper's group accordingly are hopeless.

Newsmen buttonholed Cooper midway of Monday's negotiating session—the first in 10 days—and asked him whether there was any hope of early settlement.

Meetings Set For Sunday

"We live in hope, but I can't say that that gives us any basis for optimism," Cooper replied.

Under Cooper's leadership, 11 big companies have been representing almost the whole industry in bargaining talks.

Representatives of these 11 will meet with union leaders from their separate plants in Washington Sunday.

Executives of 82 smaller steel firms will meet Sunday with union local chiefs at individual company headquarters across the country.

Joseph F. Finnegan, the government's chief mediator in the dispute, said his agency would not participate in the separate negotiations.

Ike Won't Realize Hope

Finnegan said mediation conferences will continue on a day-to-day basis in Washington between the negotiating teams representing the entire industry and the international union. Morning and afternoon sessions were set for Tuesday.

Shah Takes Commoner As 3d Bride

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — To the joyful acclaim of his subjects, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi Monday took a beautiful young commoner as his third bride.

The smiling Shah and his radiant new Queen, Farah Diba, received the congratulations of Tehran's elite in his marble palace while crowds of Iranians celebrated outside.

With all the royal ceremonials behind them, the couple will slip off to the Caspian seacoast within a few days for a honeymoon in one of the Shah's numerous castles.

Only a few months ago, 21-year-old Farah was studying architecture in Paris when she was first introduced to the Shah.

In diamond tiara and flowing bluish gray gown by Dior, she became Queen Farah with the exchange of plain gold rings with the Shah.

Through festive, celebrating Tehran ran the hope that this marriage of the 40-year-old Shah will at last produce an heir to Iran's Peacock Throne. The Shah, who divorced two other Middle East beauties because they failed to provide him a son, has said this marriage is for dynastic as well as "human reasons."

Move To Block Milk Marketing Order Argued

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal judge heard arguments Monday on a move by the state of Minnesota to block temporarily a proposed Maryland milk marketing agreement.

U. S. District Judge Burnite S. Matthews announced afterward that she hopes to reach a decision before Christmas on the request for an injunction.

Although the Agriculture Department has not issued an order setting up the proposed price-fixing milk marketing agreement for the upper Chesapeake Bay area, backers of the plan hoped to see it go into effect Jan. 1.

Opposing lawyers differed as to what the agreement would do.

J. C. Krause, Agriculture Department attorney, argued Minnesota dairymen would not be affected because they ship only fluid cream into Maryland. The marketing agreement, he said, would cover only fluid milk, or cream produced from fluid milk, sold in the area.

Sydney Berde of St. Paul, special assistant attorney general of Minnesota, declared the agreement would have the practical effect of excluding Minnesota cream because Maryland producers, by receiving higher prices on fluid milk, would be able to undersell Minnesota cream.

He said the plan would increase the cost of milk to consumers.

Backing the agreement is Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers Inc., Baltimore, composed of 1,627 of the approximately 3,000 milk producers in the upper Chesapeake Bay area.

Frustrating Day For Santa

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

'Twas the glad week of Christmas, and all through the nation, old Santa was facing all sorts of frustration.

He got lost in the East, and went plop in the West, while the children observed, quite alarmed and distressed.

If this was a hint of the fellow's proclivities, how would he ever perform his deliveries?

In Bloomfield, N. M., Santa descended, his plane hit a mailbox, another it dented.

He climbed from the cockpit, his belly aquiver, and managed to pose as the holiday giver.

But 300 youngsters looked on in dismay, and suggested that next time he stick with his sleigh.

In midtown New York, a big outdoor exhibit was looted and Santa no longer was with it.

And missing as well from the rooftop display was one of the reindeers hitched to his sleigh.

In Denville, N. J., a club planned a game, with Santa arriving with toys in a plane.

But the thing had a mishap before he got on it, and though no one was hurt, the kids were despondent.

8-Year-Old Thief Costs Cafeteria Cashier $5,600

NEW YORK (AP) — A child sneak thief cost a woman cashier $5,600 in cash she was taking to the bank Monday in a paper bag. The money slipped from the 8-year-old girl's grasp but was picked up by a man who escaped.

The victim was Catherine Baker, about 50, en route to a bank with receipts from the upper Broadway cafeteria where she works.

At 85th Street and Broadway, the girl snatched the bag and ran. A passerby grappled with the child and the youngster dropped the bag. A man came along, picked up the bag and both he and the child disappeared.

West Leaders Pledge Trade Accord Quest

PARIS (AP)—The Western Big Four pledged Monday to work for a long-term settlement of West Europe's trade disputes.

President Eisenhower joined his allies in urging that fair and liberal trade principles govern any truce between Europe's rival trade blocs. These are the six-nation Common Market led by France and Germany and the seven-nation Free Trade Assn. led by Britain.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, President Charles de Gaulle, and Eisenhower also set up a special negotiating committee, which will meet here soon. Immediate objective of the experts will be to stave off threats of trade war between the two blocs. They will also sort out a tariff battle menacing European-North American trade relations.

Long-term goal of the group will be to plan the mobilization of Western resources so as to meet and beat a Soviet-led economic offensive building up for the 1960's.

In between the planners will work out a common European—North American program for aiding and developing needy nations.

Nixon To Tour Areas Visited By Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is going to take a post-Christmas look at any damage done to his political fences by touring Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Beginning with a Jan. 16 appearance at a party rally in Miami, Fla., Nixon will make an unhurried personal survey of some of the territory the New York governor covered in a six-day political prospecting trip in seven states last week.

His schedule of appearances includes speeches in Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit within the following month.

Nixon associates say Florida State Chairman G. Harold Alexander is hoping to put on a big show for Nixon at the Miami rally. One of the objectives is to demonstrate that Nixon has strong support in one of the few Southern states where Republicans seem to be gaining party strength.

If the party organization turns out the expected crowds, the contrast between the Nixon affair and the smaller Rockefeller reception last week would be expected to register on GOP officials in other states.

While Rockefeller had good crowds in some areas, reports to the Nixon camp indicate that Rockefeller made less headway than they had feared with GOP organization members who have a voice in the choice of nominating convention delegates.

Nixon's backers conceded that in some states, notably Wisconsin, Rockefeller was so tied down to his locally arranged schedule he didn't get much chance to show himself to the general public. They disclaim any responsibility, or even approval, of these tactics.

Nixon will get a chance to check on the Wisconsin situation when he goes to Milwaukee Feb. 8 for a Lincoln Day dinner speech. All signs indicate the state party organization will line up strongly for him if he and Rockefeller tangle in the state's April 5 presidential primary.

Chessman Is Condemned To Die—For Eighth Time

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Caryl Chessman, the convicted author who has evaded execution for 11½ years, Monday was condemned to die — for the eighth time.

Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker set Feb. 19 as the date the former "Redlight Bandit" of Los Angeles should die in the gas chamber.

Even as he was being sentenced his attorneys were launching complex legal moves to keep him alive.

"We have two legal avenues to pursue," said Atty. A. L. Wirin. "They may take months and months to process."

One involves going back to the U.S. Supreme Court where Chessman's case has been heard a half-dozen times.

Another involves returning to a writ of habeas corpus Chessman has pending in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Both moves, like most of the legal steps which have kept Chessman alive since 1948, are based on what his attorneys term "inadequacy of the record of his trial."

In May 1948 Chessman was convicted of 17 felonies committed by a bandit who roved the Hollywood hills in a red-light-equipped car, pretending to be a police officer and then robbing men and raping women.

Two of the crimes were kidnaping for robbery with bodily injury which calls for the death penalty in California.

After he was sentenced the court reporter who took notes at his trial died. Another reporter transcribed the first man's notes.

Chessman has used this as the basis for a long succession of writs, appeals and petitions.

Million Pack 19-Mile Route Into Madrid

Eisenhower Given One Of Greatest Ovations Of Tour

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

MADRID (AP)—In cold rain and raw wind President Eisenhower rode for miles through Madrid Monday evening while about a million Spaniards roared "Viva Ike" in one of the greatest acclaims of his tour.

With his black Homburg off his head about as much as he kept it on, the President rode beside Francisco Franco resplendent in his generalissimo's uniform.

Crowds waving flags packed much of a 19-mile route from Torrejon Air Base into Madrid. They leaned over balconies and hung from trees to join in the greatest acclaim modern Spain ever has given a foreign visitor.

Franco seized upon the visit as a tribute to his stand of more than 20 years against communism. Pushing the idea that American military and financial might are behind his regime, Franco had prepared an elaborate welcome.

Lancers in blue, scarlet and gold preceded the car. The red and yellow flags of Spain mingled with the Stars and Stripes from standards along the route. There were festive portraits of Eisenhower and Franco, up to four stories high and decorated with 20,000 flags, spaced along the way. One had a sign reading: "Ike, ambassador of peace."

Ike Overwhelmed

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower told Franco he was completely overwhelmed by the warmth and size of the reception given him by Madrid, certainly one of the biggest he has had on his long trip. The Foreign Ministry estimated the crowd at a million, or half the city's population.

Hurrying down the steps of his jetliner, despite the arduous pace of the last 18 days, the President in a few words repeated the message of peace and freedom he has carried to nine other nations.

"I come to this nation, one of the ancestors of America, with a message from the American people to the Spanish people, looking for a brighter future in cooperative labor for the noblest of all human causes: peace and friendship in freedom," he said.

In greeting him, Franco said the Torrejon Air Base had been built "with the formidable assistance of the United States, and sheltering both Spanish and American wings in close companionship, is a symbol of our friendship."

Torrejon is one of four bases the United States has established in Spain at a cost of two billion dollars.

Car Brought From U. S.

The two chiefs of state got into Eisenhower's car, which had been brought from Washington and flown from Paris, for a short tour of the air base, then started a 30-mile-an-hour clip to Madrid.

A big cheer went up as the President made his way slowly around a newly named circle—Plaza del Presidente Eisenhower.

The procession was so slowed in the heart of the city that it was 40 minutes late in reaching Moncola Palace, where the President is staying. This was despite the fact the President arrived nine minutes early at Torrejon after his flight from Paris.

Eisenhower had a chance to rest for almost two hours after arriving at Moncola Palace. Then he changed into dinner jacket and black tie for a banquet at the royal palace.

The President takes off at 11 a.m. Tuesday for Morocco, last of the 11 nations on his tour. He will return to Washington late Tuesday night.

Five Castro Aides Placed On Probation

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. government handed five top Cuban supporters of Prime Minister Fidel Castro a Christmas present Monday in the form of suspended sentences for their revolutionary activity in this country during the Batista regime.

U.S. District Court Judge William Mathes allowed the five to enter pleas of guilty to reduced charges and then placed them on two years probation.

They include Dr. Carlos Prio Socarras, former Cuban president; Dr. Juan A. Orta, Castro's director general; Enrique Henriques brother-in-law of Prio; Luis Alfonso Silva and Jose Iriarte Diaz.

In diamond tiara and flowing bluish gray gown by Dior, she became Queen Farah with the exchange of plain gold rings with the Shah.

Through festive, celebrating Tehran ran the hope that this marriage of the 40-year-old Shah will at last produce an heir to Iran's Peacock Throne. The Shah, who divorced two other Middle East beauties because they failed to provide him a son, has said this marriage is for dynastic as well as "human reasons."

Move To Block Milk Marketing Order Argued

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal judge heard arguments Monday on a move by the state of Minnesota to block temporarily a proposed Maryland milk marketing agreement.

U. S. District Judge Burnite S. Matthews announced afterward that she hopes to reach a decision before Christmas on the request for an injunction.

Although the Agriculture Department has not issued an order setting up the proposed price-fixing milk marketing agreement for the upper Chesapeake Bay area, backers of the plan hoped to see it go into effect Jan. 1.

Opposing lawyers differed as to what the agreement would do.

J. C. Krause, Agriculture Department attorney, argued Minnesota dairymen would not be affected because they ship only fluid cream into Maryland. The marketing agreement, he said, would cover only fluid milk, or cream produced from fluid milk, sold in the area.

Sydney Berde of St. Paul, special assistant attorney general of Minnesota, declared the agreement would have the practical effect of excluding Minnesota cream because Maryland producers, by receiving higher prices on fluid milk, would be able to undersell Minnesota cream.

He said the plan would increase the cost of milk to consumers.

Backing the agreement is Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers Inc., Baltimore, composed of 1,627 of the approximately 3,000 milk producers in the upper Chesapeake Bay area.

Frustrating Day For Santa

Associated Press Staff Writer

'Twas the glad week of Christmas, and all through the nation, old Santa was facing all sorts of frustration.

He got lost in the East, and went plop in the West, while the children observed, quite alarmed and distressed.

If this was a hint of the fellow's proclivities, how would he ever perform his deliveries?

In Bloomfield, N. M., Santa descended, his plane hit a mailbox, another it dented.

He climbed from the cockpit, his belly aquiver, and managed to pose as the holiday giver.

But 300 youngsters looked on in dismay, and suggested that next time he stick with his sleigh.

In midtown New York, a big outdoor exhibit was looted and Santa no longer was with it.

In Denville, N. J., a club planned a game, with Santa arriving with toys in a plane.

But the thing had a mishap before he got on it, and though no one was hurt, the kids were despondent.

8-Year-Old Thief Costs Cafeteria Cashier $5,600

NEW YORK (AP) — A child sneak thief cost a woman cashier $5,600 in cash she was taking to the bank Monday in a paper bag. The money slipped from the 8-year-old girl's grasp but was picked up by a man who escaped.

The victim was Catherine Baker, about 50, en route to a bank with receipts from the upper Broadway cafeteria where she works.

At 85th Street and Broadway, the girl snatched the bag and ran. A passerby grappled with the child and the youngster dropped the bag. A man came along, picked up the bag and both he and the child disappeared.

West Leaders Pledge Trade Accord Quest

PARIS (AP)—The Western Big Four pledged Monday to work for a long-term settlement of West Europe's trade disputes.

President Eisenhower joined his allies in urging that fair and liberal trade principles govern any truce between Europe's rival trade blocs. These are the six-nation Common Market led by France and Germany and the seven-nation Free Trade Assn. led by Britain.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, President Charles de Gaulle, and Eisenhower also set up a special negotiating committee, which will meet here soon. Immediate objective of the experts will be to stave off threats of trade war between the two blocs. They will also sort out a tariff battle menacing European-North American trade relations.

Long-term goal of the group will be to plan the mobilization of Western resources so as to meet and beat a Soviet-led economic offensive building up for the 1960's.

In between the planners will work out a common European—North American program for aiding and developing needy nations.

Nixon To Tour Areas Visited By Rockefeller

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is going to take a post-Christmas look at any damage done to his political fences by touring Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Beginning with a Jan. 16 appearance at a party rally in Miami, Fla., Nixon will make an unhurried personal survey of some of the territory the New York governor covered in a six-day political prospecting trip in seven states last week.

His schedule of appearances includes speeches in Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit within the following month.

Nixon associates say Florida State Chairman G. Harold Alexander is hoping to put on a big show for Nixon at the Miami rally. One of the objectives is to demonstrate that Nixon has strong support in one of the few Southern states where Republicans seem to be gaining party strength.

If the party organization turns out the expected crowds, the contrast between the Nixon affair and the smaller Rockefeller reception last week would be expected to register on GOP officials in other states.

While Rockefeller had good crowds in some areas, reports to the Nixon camp indicate that Rockefeller made less headway than they had feared with GOP organization members who have a voice in the choice of nominating convention delegates.

Nixon's backers conceded that in some states, notably Wisconsin, Rockefeller was so tied down to his locally arranged schedule he didn't get much chance to show himself to the general public. They disclaim any responsibility, or even approval, of these tactics.

Nixon will get a chance to check on the Wisconsin situation when he goes to Milwaukee Feb. 8 for a Lincoln Day dinner speech. All signs indicate the state party organization will line up strongly for him if he and Rockefeller tangle in the state's April 5 presidential primary.

Snow Covers Large Section Of Northeast

By The Associated Press

Snow blanketed a wide section of the nation's Northeast Monday, covering an area from the Great Lakes east through Pennsylvania and West Virginia, through Maryland and and New Jersey and into southern New England.

The fall generally was 2 to 3 inches. But a heavier fall, up to 5 inches in places, occurred in western Pennsylvania.

Northern New Jersey reported sharp winds swept in with the storm. It brought icy highways and hazardous driving conditions.

Northeastern Utah's Strawberry Valley, and Sevier Summit in central Utah, also had snow.

Watch Out For Gyp Seller, Buying Public Advised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Watch out for the salesman who tells you you've won a contest or that your house has been selected for a demonstration, a Federal Trade Commission official advised housewives Monday.

Watch out even for the encyclopedia salesman who flashes a letter from Johnny's teacher indicating his education would be advanced by the books.

"A little payola may be involved," said Daniel J. Murphy, assistant director of FTC's Bureau of Litigation.

He spoke at a meeting of 47 civic, consumer and welfare group representatives, opening a government drive against false advertising and fraudulent selling practices.

Murphy suggested some other alerting signs for the housewife who answers the telephone or doorbell:

The salesman who calls himself some fancy name, other than a salesman, and tells you that you have been selected to purchase new and revolutionary cooking utensils.

"The salesman with one foot in your door claiming to be a representative of the city government (whose) only desire is to make a fire prevention talk but whose real purpose is to sell fire alarm systems.

"Representatives of furnace manufacturers whose sales crews masquerade as inspectors and under the guise of a safety campaign deliberately sabotage a householder's furnace.

Chessman Is Condemned To Die—For Eighth Time

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Caryl Chessman, the convicted author who has evaded execution for 11½ years, Monday was condemned to die — for the eighth time.

Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker set Feb. 19 as the date the former "Redlight Bandit" of Los Angeles should die in the gas chamber.

Even as he was being sentenced his attorneys were launching complex legal moves to keep him alive.

"We have two legal avenues to pursue," said Atty. A. L. Wirin. "They may take months and months to process."

One involves going back to the U.S. Supreme Court where Chessman's case has been heard a half-dozen times.

Another involves returning to a writ of habeas corpus Chessman has pending in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Both moves, like most of the legal steps which have kept Chessman alive since 1948, are based on what his attorneys term "inadequacy of the record of his trial."

In May 1948 Chessman was convicted of 17 felonies committed by a bandit who roved the Hollywood hills in a red-light-equipped car, pretending to be a police officer and then robbing men and raping women.

Two of the crimes were kidnaping for robbery with bodily injury which calls for the death penalty in California.

After he was sentenced the court reporter who took notes at his trial died. Another reporter transcribed the first man's notes.

Chessman has used this as the basis for a long succession of writs, appeals and petitions.

Five Castro Aides Placed On Probation

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. government handed five top Cuban supporters of Prime Minister Fidel Castro a Christmas present Monday in the form of suspended sentences for their revolutionary activity in this country during the Batista regime.

U.S. District Court Judge William Mathes allowed the five to enter pleas of guilty to reduced charges and then placed them on two years probation.

They include Dr. Carlos Prio Socarras, former Cuban president; Dr. Juan A. Orta, Castro's director general; Enrique Henriques brother-in-law of Prio; Luis Alfonso Silva and Jose Iriarte Diaz.

Sheriff Certain Widow Of Ex-Gov. Marland Alive

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Sheriff Forrest Walker said Monday he is convinced Mrs. Lyde Marland is alive. He said his investigation into the case of the missing widow of a former Oklahoma governor is closed.

Walker said he has determined to his own satisfaction that Mrs. Marland is alive and living in a large city in one of Oklahoma's bordering states.

"Apparently she wants her whereabouts to remain secret so we are not going to divulge where she is living now," the sheriff said.

The widow of former Gov. E.W. Marland disappeared from Ponca City in February 1953. She was known to have been in Missouri in June 1953 but has not been heard from by people in her home town in years.

She was the legal ward of the oil-wealthy Marland. Later they were married after the death of his first wife in 1926.

Mrs. Marland, who now would be about 59, lived in a guest cottage on the 2½-million-dollar estate of her late husband before her disappearance.

A letter to Walker from a Long Beach, Calif., man, A.M. Peck, said Mrs. Marland was "alive and in fairly good health" as of late summer 1959.

Toy Tow Truck In Mail Touches Off Bomb Scare

BOSTON (UPI) — A children's toy tow truck Monday night touched off a massive bomb scare alert in the mail-jammed south postal annex of Boston's South Station.

Postal inspectors and police and fire emergency squads converged on the crowded postal distribution center at the height of the evening commuter rush hour.

A package, measuring about eight by six by six inches, began making an ominous buzzing sound while being handled by a postal worker.

The handler called his superiors who rushed the package outside the building and summoned demolition experts.

General Postal Superintendent David McGuire, directing the investigation, said similar scares had occurred during past holiday seasons.

"This is almost a regular thing," he said.

"If people would not install the batteries in position in these toys, we wouldn't have this trouble. Any jar will shake the switch on and scare the daylights out of everybody in the place."

Postmaster Ephraim Martin said the toy was re-wrapped and sent on its way.

Women Ask New Look In Political Banquet Menus

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's going to be a big year for political banqueting. And what's on the menu may be important.

The top women in the two parties—Democrat Katie Louchheim and Republican Clare Williams—agree they'd like a change in the fare.

The sad plight of GOP Chairman Thruston B. Morton was cited. He once was served chicken—11 meals in a row.

The weight-conscious women would like to vote for the banquet manager who can cut out all those starches, fried foods and rich desserts.

Since women can throw their weight around at election time, it might be well for the banquet managers across the country to take a hint.

Dancer Acquitted Of Forgery Charge

BALTIMORE (AP) — A night club dancer was acquitted Monday of a charge of forging a check but the judge noted she played an elderly suitor for all she could get out of him.

Freed was Mrs. Dolores Buchwald, 28-year-old blonde entertainer who performs on the honky-tonk "Block" of Baltimore Street.

Criminal Court Judge Joseph Allen debated whether Glenn W. White, 68, of Federalsburg, had given Mrs. Buchwald a $700 check or whether he actually gave her a $26.43 check to pay a grocery bill.

The defendant is a mother of three young children and separated from her husband.

Judge Allen decided her story was mainly true, that the $700 check was filled out and later signed by White at the home of Mrs. Buchwald's mother.

The Eastern Shore waterman had given the woman checks at other times, testimony showed.

Detroit Couple Killed In Turnpike Crash

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An auto-truck collision on the Pennsylvania Turnpike six miles west of the Pittsburgh Interchange Monday killed Jacob Groendal, 66, and his wife, Helen, of Detroit, Mich.

State Police said the collision involved Groendal's auto and two trailer trucks operated by Cody Thomas, 38, of Auburndale, Fla., and Robert Roach, 30, of Akron, Ohio.

Thomas suffered a possible concussion and back injury. Roach suffered a shoulder injury. The truckers were admitted to Citizens Hospital in satisfactory condition.

Young Couple Sought After Robbing Traveling Companions

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP) — An intensive air and ground search Monday failed to locate a young couple who robbed their companions during a motor trip from Canada to Florida.

The couple took more than $500 in Canadian and U. S. currency and travelers' checks from Mrs. Fern Ranney of Minden, Ontario, and Ronald Rees, 24, of Neath, South Wales, and held them at gunpoint for more than six hours in a motel room. They fled in Mrs. Ranney's car after Rees struck the gunman in the head with a coffee pot.

Mrs. Ranney told officers she expected both she and Rees to be killed after Rees attacked the man.

The quartet had left Toronto Sunday morning in Mrs. Ranney's car. Rees, a graduate student at the University of Toronto, and the couple had answered an advertisement Mrs. Ranney had placed for traveling companions.

She told police that about halfway between Washington, D. C., and this northern Virginia city the man, who was driving at the time, stopped the car and both he and the woman held guns on her and Rees.

After taking their money, they drove to a motel near here and rented a room about 1 a. m. Still holding their guns on Rees and Mrs. Ranney, the pair ransacked all the luggage.

Rees said the woman dozed off early in the morning and that the man began breathing heavily as though he were asleep about 7 a. m. Reese grabbed the coffee pot and struck the man, and he and Mrs. Ranney then fled from the room.

While Rees was talking to a mo- couple sped off in Mrs. Ranney's torist he had flagged down, the car.

"Phone us if you need us"
A girl's best friend is often her telephone —whether she's twenty-five or five.
When you're twenty-five, the mother of a five-year-old, and going out for the evening—it means a lot to know that your favorite baby sitter can call you by phone should anything unusual occur to worry her.
That silent phone says, as clearly as words, that all's well at home.
Sometimes the calls that aren't made (because they aren't needed) add as much to living as those we like to make. Perhaps that's what makes a phone worth so much more than it costs.

Non-Farm Job Placements Off

BALTIMORE (AP) — Fewer persons were placed in non-farm jobs during November than in the previous month, the Department of Employment Security said Monday.

Director Robert B. Kimble said the decline followed the normal seasonal pattern as outdoors activities fell off. The steel strike also was partly to blame, he said, because steel shortages slowed down hiring in the automotive, metals and other industries.

The department found work for 3,980 Marylanders in non-farm jobs last month, a drop of 12.4 per cent from the 4,545 in October and a 1.6 per cent decrease from November, 1958.

Employers listed 4,736 job openings with the department during November, down 24 per cent from October and down 0.7 per cent from November last year.

Crackdown Urged On Defiant Motorists

BALTIMORE (AP)—Del. Charles F. Culver (D-Balto County) Monday called for swift detection and prosecution of motorists driving under suspended or revoked licenses.

Culver urged stronger enforcement of state laws in a letter to Del. Edgar P. Silver (D-Balto 5th), chairman of the Legislative Council's committee on motor vehicles.

Culver urged that the committee's immediate attention be given to "the willful and deliberate violation of laws respecting suspension and revocation of licenses."

The Baltimore County delegate listed two possible procedures to meet the problem:

"First, a method must be devised for swift detection of these violators.

"Second, there must be swift and certain prosecution through grand jury indictment for perjury and other violations . . . and the courts must impose maximum penalties."

Oyster Bar Survey Both Good And Bad

SOLOMONS, Md. (AP) — Maryland's public oyster bars in Chesapeake Bay have their good and dark sides.

A survey by federal and State agencies showed Monday that oysters above the bay bridge are especially fat, but the "set" of baby oysters continues very poor.

The scientists making the study discovered no evidence of heavy oyster mortalities reported recently in nearby states.

Dieting "Santa Claus" Loses His Trousers

EASTON, Md. (AP) — It's a foregone conclusion Santa usually loses his shirt when the bills roll in around the first of January.

But the old gent lost his trousers while passing out gifts at the Quaker Meeting House here Sunday.

He stood there in his long beard, red coat and shorts trying to figure out why the grownups were so amused.

Finally, he looked down. And without a change in expression pulled up his trousers and pillow stuffing, and kept on with the job.

Santa in this instance was former Rep. Edward T. Miller. He explained he had dieted off 20 pounds since last August.

Non-Farm Job Placements Off

BALTIMORE (AP) — Fewer persons were placed in non-farm jobs during November than in the previous month, the Department of Employment Security said Monday.

Director Robert B. Kimble said the decline followed the normal seasonal pattern as outdoors activities fell off. The steel strike also was partly to blame, he said, because steel shortages slowed down hiring in the automotive, metals and other industries.

The department found work for 3,980 Marylanders in non-farm jobs last month, a drop of 12.4 per cent from the 4,545 in October and a 1.6 per cent decrease from November, 1958.

Employers listed 4,736 job openings with the department during November, down 24 per cent from October and down 0.7 per cent from November last year.

Crackdown Urged On Defiant Motorists

BALTIMORE (AP)—Del. Charles F. Culver (D-Balto County) Monday called for swift detection and prosecution of motorists driving under suspended or revoked licenses.

Culver urged stronger enforcement of state laws in a letter to Del. Edgar P. Silver (D-Balto 5th), chairman of the Legislative Council's committee on motor vehicles.

Culver urged that the committee's immediate attention be given to "the willful and deliberate violation of laws respecting suspension and revocation of licenses."

The Baltimore County delegate listed two possible procedures to meet the problem:

"First, a method must be devised for swift detection of these violators.

"Second, there must be swift and certain prosecution through grand jury indictment for perjury and other violations . . . and the courts must impose maximum penalties."

Oyster Bar Survey Both Good And Bad

SOLOMONS, Md. (AP) — Maryland's public oyster bars in Chesapeake Bay have their good and dark sides.

A survey by federal and State agencies showed Monday that oysters above the bay bridge are especially fat, but the "set" of baby oysters continues very poor.

The scientists making the study discovered no evidence of heavy oyster mortalities reported recently in nearby states.

Dieting "Santa Claus" Loses His Trousers

EASTON, Md. (AP) — It's a foregone conclusion Santa usually loses his shirt when the bills roll in around the first of January.

But the old gent lost his trousers while passing out gifts at the Quaker Meeting House here Sunday.

He stood there in his long beard, red coat and shorts trying to figure out why the grownups were so amused.

Finally, he looked down. And without a change in expression pulled up his trousers and pillow stuffing, and kept on with the job.

Santa in this instance was former Rep. Edward T. Miller. He explained he had dieted off 20 pounds since last August.

Earthquake Center

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Tacubaya seismograph observatory reports that one - third of the earthquakes registered in Mexico each year occur in the Valley of Mexico near this capital.

It adds that about 15 a day are reported, but many are so slight that they are recorded only on delicate instruments.

City Council Meets Only Five Minutes

The regular session of the Mayor and Council lasted about five minutes yesterday and resulted in only routine action.

But council had met before and after the regular session to discuss plans for a street improvement program with Commissioner John J. Long.

City offices and departments will begin their Christmas holiday at noon Thursday, under an order passed yesterday. Offices will reopen at the regular hour Monday.

Cumberland Savings Bank accepted and executed an agreement with the city making it a collection agency for city water and sewage bills in the South End area.

The bid of $2,767 by Wallace-Tiernan Inc., for two chlorinators and pressure valves for the Lake Gordon water plant was accepted.

Payment of $100 to Management Information Service for 1960 subscription was approved.

School Plans Yule Program

The seventh grade classes of Pennsylvania Avenue will present their annual Christmas program today at 1:30 p. m. in the auditorium.

The flag ceremony will be conducted by Ernest Huff, Gary O'Neal, William Berry, Richard Chaney and Darrel Merkel.

Scripture will be a choral reading by Mrs. Mary P. Wilson's room followed by four numbers by the seventh grade glee club directed by Miss Marie Goldsworthy.

The room taught by Edward R. Langan, will give a choral reading, and Walter C. Crawford's homeroom will give several choralogues and a dramatization.

Musical selections will be given by these students from Miss Margaret K. Blake's room—Elaine Sirbaugh, Robert Henry, Albert Koch, Gary O'Neal, Wayne Campbell, Vickie Baker, Harry Williams, Pamela Tichnell, Elmo Evans, Ellen Allanbaugh, Karen See, Richard Cosner.

The program will conclude with a tableau, "In Bethlehem," by members of Miss Blake's home room. Barbara Rhodes will be Mary, David Merril, Joseph with Ernest Huff as narrator.

The life expectancy of a Norwegian girl is said to be the highest in the world — 72.6 years.

Air Pictures Of City Shown At City Hall

Walls of the City Hall rotunda will contain aerial pictures of Cumberland before and after flood control as well as items of historical interest, Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday.

Workmen began installing two aerial photographs of the city at the Liberty Street entrance of City Hall yesterday. These show the city prior to the flood control project. Later, Mayor Keech said it is planned to place the "after flood control pictures" at the Centre Street entrance.

While this project was being started, workmen were also decorating the rotunda for the holiday season.

Mayor Keech said it is planned to place one of the original maps of the city on one of the walls. The two aerial pictures placed today measure 3.7 feet wide by 5.3 feet long.

Also on display in the rotunda is the encased original report of the five commissioners appointed by the General Assembly January 27, 1805 for a re-survey of the city. The map to be hung in the rotunda was included with this report. The map is substantially the same as the original town site map of 1787. It was presented to the city by John F. Schaidt III in memory of John F. Schaidt who was county surveyor from 1877 to 1880.

The first of all surveys made of what is now Cumberland was by Col. Thomas Cresap in 1745.

Harbors in northern Norway are free of ice although they are well above the Arctic Circle. This is because they are warmed by the Gulf Stream.

Local K Of C Council To Hold Degree Ceremony

Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, will continue its Christmas season activities today with a degree ceremony, according to Larry Geiger, grand knight.

Geiger said the candidates for the first degree will report to the council home at 7:30 p. m., and the ceremony is scheduled to get under way at 8:30 p. m.

The candidates and their sponsors are as follows:

William J. Sullivan (R. V. Molesky); Robert W. Manthiey (Thomas E. Carroll); Robert A. Reinhart (L. E. Geiger); Kenneth W. Lawrence (Joseph Soethe); William L. Weaver (John J. O'Donnell); William P. Dunn (Thomas E. Dunn); William J. Becker (Paul J. Stakem); George A. Flynn (Valentine J. Lydinger); Francis D. Carney (Edward F. Lyons), and Carl V. Hansen (John J. O'Donnell).

The council will sponsor its annual Christmas Dance on Friday beginning at 10 p. m., with music by the Peck Mills Orchestra. No admission will be charged and the affair is open for members and friends. Ray Wempe and James Collins are in charge of arrangements.

A New Year's Eve dance is scheduled for December 31, beginning at 10 p. m., with the Smithem Orchestra playing. Reservations are being accepted by Wempe and Collins who are also serving as co-chairmen for this affair.

A second degree ceremony is scheduled for January 3 at 2 p. m. in the council chamber. Advocate John O'Rourke is general chairman, and is being assisted by John Lindner, past grand knight.

Sunday Raymond J. "Ike" Law, chairman of the council sick committee, conducted a party for the inmates of the County Infirmary.

Sponsored by the K. of C., the party had two Red Cross Gray ladies assisting, Ethel W. Wolford and Margaret Kienhofer. The Steckman dance studio students and Mrs. Ida Lee Beaulieu, singer, presented entertainment. Candy and flowers were distributed.

Can Produce Bombs

OSLO (UPI) — Gunnar Randars, the director of the Norwegian Nuclear Research Institute, said Norwegian scientists could produce atomic bombs "within reasonable time" if ordered to do so by the government.

To Present Play

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of Zion Methodist Church, Bedford Road, will present a play, "Grandpa Hangs Holly," Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the church.

The U. S. Mint at Philadelphia has been in continuous operation since its establishment in 1792.

May the true spirit of Christmas bring Joy and Gladness to your hearts. And may your Holiday observance be centered around Christ.

City Council Meets Only Five Minutes

The regular session of the Mayor and Council lasted about five minutes yesterday and resulted in only routine action.

But council had met before and after the regular session to discuss plans for a street improvement program with Commissioner John J. Long.

City offices and departments will begin their Christmas holiday at noon Thursday, under an order passed yesterday. Offices will reopen at the regular hour Monday.

Cumberland Savings Bank accepted and executed an agreement with the city making it a collection agency for city water and sewage bills in the South End area.

The bid of $2,767 by Wallace-Tiernan Inc., for two chlorinators and pressure valves for the Lake Gordon water plant was accepted.

Payment of $100 to Management Information Service for 1960 subscription was approved.

School Plans Yule Program

The flag ceremony will be conducted by Ernest Huff, Gary O'Neal, William Berry, Richard Chaney and Darrel Merkel.

Scripture will be a choral reading by Mrs. Mary P. Wilson's room followed by four numbers by the seventh grade glee club directed by Miss Marie Goldsworthy.

The room taught by Edward R. Langan, will give a choral reading, and Walter C. Crawford's homeroom will give several choralogues and a dramatization.

Musical selections will be given by these students from Miss Margaret K. Blake's room—Elaine Sirbaugh, Robert Henry, Albert Koch, Gary O'Neal, Wayne Campbell, Vickie Baker, Harry Williams, Pamela Tichnell, Elmo Evans, Ellen Allanbaugh, Karen See, Richard Cosner.

The program will conclude with a tableau, "In Bethlehem," by members of Miss Blake's home room. Barbara Rhodes will be Mary, David Merril, Joseph with Ernest Huff as narrator.

The life expectancy of a Norwegian girl is said to be the highest in the world — 72.6 years.

Air Pictures Of City Shown At City Hall

Walls of the City Hall rotunda will contain aerial pictures of Cumberland before and after flood control as well as items of historical interest, Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday.

Workmen began installing two aerial photographs of the city at the Liberty Street entrance of City Hall yesterday. These show the city prior to the flood control project. Later, Mayor Keech said it is planned to place the "after flood control pictures" at the Centre Street entrance.

While this project was being started, workmen were also decorating the rotunda for the holiday season.

Mayor Keech said it is planned to place one of the original maps of the city on one of the walls. The two aerial pictures placed today measure 3.7 feet wide by 5.3 feet long.

Also on display in the rotunda is the encased original report of the five commissioners appointed by the General Assembly January 27, 1805 for a re-survey of the city. The map to be hung in the rotunda was included with this report. The map is substantially the same as the original town site map of 1787. It was presented to the city by John F. Schaidt III in memory of John F. Schaidt who was county surveyor from 1877 to 1880.

The first of all surveys made of what is now Cumberland was by Col. Thomas Cresap in 1745.

Harbors in northern Norway are free of ice although they are well above the Arctic Circle. This is because they are warmed by the Gulf Stream.

Local K Of C Council To Hold Degree Ceremony

Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, will continue its Christmas season activities today with a degree ceremony, according to Larry Geiger, grand knight.

Geiger said the candidates for the first degree will report to the council home at 7:30 p. m., and the ceremony is scheduled to get under way at 8:30 p. m.

The candidates and their sponsors are as follows:

William J. Sullivan (R. V. Molesky); Robert W. Manthiey (Thomas E. Carroll); Robert A. Reinhart (L. E. Geiger); Kenneth W. Lawrence (Joseph Soethe); William L. Weaver (John J. O'Donnell); William P. Dunn (Thomas E. Dunn); William J. Becker (Paul J. Stakem); George A. Flynn (Valentine J. Lydinger); Francis D. Carney (Edward F. Lyons), and Carl V. Hansen (John J. O'Donnell).

The council will sponsor its annual Christmas Dance on Friday beginning at 10 p. m., with music by the Peck Mills Orchestra. No admission will be charged and the affair is open for members and friends. Ray Wempe and James Collins are in charge of arrangements.

A New Year's Eve dance is scheduled for December 31, beginning at 10 p. m., with the Smithem Orchestra playing. Reservations are being accepted by Wempe and Collins who are also serving as co-chairmen for this affair.

A second degree ceremony is scheduled for January 3 at 2 p. m. in the council chamber. Advocate John O'Rourke is general chairman, and is being assisted by John Lindner, past grand knight.

Sunday Raymond J. "Ike" Law, chairman of the council sick committee, conducted a party for the inmates of the County Infirmary.

Sponsored by the K. of C., the party had two Red Cross Gray ladies assisting, Ethel W. Wolford and Margaret Kienhofer. The Steckman dance studio students and Mrs. Ida Lee Beaulieu, singer, presented entertainment. Candy and flowers were distributed.

Long Proposes Program For Improving Streets

Street Commissioner John J. Long yesterday proposed a "pay-as-you-go" resurfacing and street improvement program with funds available in order that the permanent effect of a five-year modernization plan would not be lost.

The Mayor and Council launched into a study almost immediately on the financial and other aspects of the program.

The commissioner said that rather than let the proposed five-year plan die, he felt the city should undertake to do something permanent and emphasized that time is important. Last week, a public meeting on a proposal to float a bond issue or increase taxes to pay for streets met with opposition from the majority attending. However, there was almost unanimous agreement that the city needs a street improvement plan.

Long's proposal yesterday included:

1. If there is no bond issue, a program should be started on a pay-as-you-go basis and future planning be made based on funds available.

2. The Street Department has approximately $109,000 which could be earmarked for permanent street improvement. This fund, he said, might possibly be built up by using state revenues and by other departments "pulling in their belts" plus adding to the fund 10 cents from the current tax rate.

3. Use sewage treatment plant surplus funds for storm sewers. (It was pointed out later, however, that this money could be used for sanitary sewers and such use would separate many storm-sanitary sewers presently combined and get storm water out of the sewage treatment plant.)

4. With funds available, the street program could be started in the spring with bids being obtained during the winter.

5. Where dirt streets exist (the city has approximately 20 miles) Long said a light surface treatment at city expense might be possible if property owners would assume cost of curbs and sidewalks. The light surface treatment would be a base for a permanent surface in years to come. (Long said he was in sympathy with those who are retired and living off pensions and added that in view of their cost complaints some attempt should be made to reduce cost.)

Long said if only five streets are light surfaced or only a small amount of resurfacing of permanent streets completed under the pay-as-you-go setup, "We will be that much ahead."

However, he added there is not much sense in doing anything unless something is done about damage to streets caused by trucks.

Long admitted that the pay-as-you-go plan is not as good as previous proposals for the bond issue or tax increase to pay for the improvement, but he added it would be a step in the right direction. Interest costs on such a bond issue would be saved and if several departments "pulled in their belts" the city could forget about a tax increase for streets, he said.

Long added it would be unfortunate to have the street program "stymied at this moment."

The proposal was presented prior to the regular meeting. Council met after its regular session to re-discuss the plan and its financing.

Among points brought out there were that the $109,000 mentioned by Long would be reduced by property acquisition for the Franklin Street project but Long said "even if we have but $80,000 we could get something started." It was noted that trucks can not be re-routed since such action is a violation of state law, but the city could ban trucks from certain streets.

Most of the discussion was on the light surface phase of Long's proposal and was attended by Franklin J. Blaney and Guy Rickard Jr., assistant city engineers.

Council also dwelt briefly on the desirable possibility of reducing its street oiling program as the result of installing light-surfaces on dirt streets. Oil funds as reduced would go into the improvement fund.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech urged "careful consideration" of the Long proposal and said while it is a matter of finances, he hoped the city would get busy and adopt it. The plan must be fair to the taxpayer, he said, adding that he would like the opinion in writing of those living on dirt streets about the proposal that they install the curb and sidewalk and the city lay the light surface which could be the base for permanent improvement in a few years.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Textron Inc. announced its subsidiary Textron Electronics, Inc. has agreed to acquire Midwestern Instruments, Inc., a Tulsa, Okla. Electronics firm, for 726,167 shares of Textron electronics, subject to the approval of stockholders of Midwestern.

Local Attorney Says Nixon Will Be Next President

George R. Hughes Jr., local attorney and former member of the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly, in a talk to members of the Lonaconing Republican Club predicted that Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be the next occupant of the White House as President.

Hughes also said that the GOP should work for the return of the Sixth Maryland District seat in Congress to the Republican ranks. Hughes said that the present Congressman (John R. Foley) has done nothing for the vast majority of the people in the district and has in fact, even turned his back on the labor group which supported him in the last campaign.

Hughes, who was making the first in a series of talks scheduled by the Lonaconing GOP, was introduced by James S. Getty, state's attorney.

An all-out campaign to register as many voters as possible under the Republican party was urged by Hughes. He said this would materially strengthen the Republican party in the county and state.

He said an enlightened electorate recognizes that the industrial and economical expansion in Maryland, particularly Western Maryland, has been due primarily to the efforts of the state's two Republican senators, J. Glenn Beall and John Marshall Butler. Hughes also praised the efforts of former Gov. McKeldin in this regard.

Hughes cited road improvements in Western Maryland, expansion of Frostburg State Teachers College, modernization and additions to Miners Hospital in Frostburg as accomplishments of the McKeldin administration.

It was pointed out that Sen. Beall had championed the Savage River Dam project, and the planning of the Upper Potomac River Commission has materially affected the industrial expansion of our area.

Getty announced at the session that the next talk will be by State Sen. Charles M. See on Thursday, January 21, at the Lonaconing Club.

Murder Trial

dict Skitarelic, a Cumberland pathologist, and Dr. Henry C. Freimuth of Catonsville, who has been toxicologist for the State Medical Examiner's Office since 1944.

Dr. Rivera was called to the Schroyer tavern about 1 a. m. October 25 and saw the deceased lying dead on the floor in a second-floor apartment which he had occupied above the tavern. Dr. Feaster took a blood sample from the defendant at Garrett County Memorial Hospital at 3:15 a. m. October 25.

Dr. Skitarelic performed the autopsy upon Schroyer's body at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland. He informed the three judges that the deceased had about .14 per cent of ethyl alcohol in his blood. He also performed some tests with powder burns and concluded that the revolver which killed the tavern owner was held about four inches from his head.

Cites Alcohol In Blood

Dr. Freimuth testified about tests he made October 28, immediately upon receipt of a sample of Guard's blood which was delivered to him by State Police. He said there was about .12 per cent ethyl alcohol in the defendant's blood, which could cause a decrease in inhibitions, a decrease in judgment, and slowing of reaction time.

Other state witnesses called to the stand were Trooper First Class Robert D. Henline, Clifford Schroyer, 18, and Dale Schroyer, 15, two of the seven sons of the deceased, both of whom were in the tavern that night; Mrs. Myrtle Schroyer, also of Friendsville, the 62-year-old mother of the tavern operator; Ray Coddington, 23, also of Friendsville, who had been wrestling with the deceased in an apparent session of "making the fool"; Walter Lee Coddington, 17, and Robert Spear, 36, both witnesses to the shooting, and Sheriff Frantz, who had placed Guard under arrest about 2 a. m. October 25.

It was brought out in cross-examination that Frantz defeated Guard in the election for sheriff in November 1958.

The final state witness, State Police Sgt. N.J.W. Lloyd, a firearms analyst, was late in arriving for the trial because he had to drive all the way from Baltimore County after getting delayed word of his summons yesterday morning. He said that he has testified as a firearms analyst in 34 trials since 1951 in 19 of Maryland's 23 counties. He testified that it was necessary to pull the trigger to fire Guard's gun because of its built-in safety feature.

Relieved Of Duties

First of the six defense witnesses was Richard L. Davis, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court. He testified that Guard took the oath as constable on April 8 following his appointment by the county commissioners. He read the oath which Guard was required to take. The defendant has been relieved of his constable's duties since his arrest more than eight weeks ago.

Other defense witnesses were Thomas Schroyer 19, now of Falls Church, Va., who was engaged in the fight which Guard stopped; Sgt. Lloyd, who was recalled to answer a final question about Guard's gun; Douglas Schroyer, a first cousin of the deceased now living in Cleveland, Ohio, who saw the disturbance and helped Guard find his revolver; Everett Dale DeWitt, who lives in Mt. Lake Park, and the defendent himself.

Defense attorneys are Mr. Cobey, Lewis R. Jones, E. Ray Jones, both of Oakland.

The three judges from the three westernmost counties of Maryland will decide the case after hearing final argument this morning.

Chief Parker Stresses Christmas Tree Safety

The Christmas tree is a beautiful symbol of the Yuletide season, although bringing it into the home makes it a dangerous fire hazard, Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker warned yesterday.

Choose a small tree instead of a large one and keep the tree outdoors until you are ready to install it, the chief said.

Among other suggestions, Chief Parker pointed out that it is best not to set the tree up until just before Christmas and also to set it up in the coolest part of the house — away from radiators, heaters, and fireplaces.

Stand the tree in water to retard drying and use fireproof decorations of glass or metal, never cotton or paper decorations unless flameproof, Chief Parker added.

He said electric trains should not be set around or near the tree.

Use electric lights — never candles. Inspect every electric socket and wire to make sure it is in good condition.

When needles start falling, take the tree down and discard it outdoors. Gift wrappings should be discarded promptly and safely after presents are opened.

Chief Parker called special attention to metal Christmas trees now being sold by local merchants. Most manufacturers have issued a warning bulletin with the trees that electric lights should not be used on them.

With electric lights attached it is possible for these trees to become dangerous, he added.

House Is Damaged

White columns of smoke poured skyward and streams of light bathed the burning buildings as firemen worked under the double handicap of a cold, pelting snowstorm and swiftly fading daylight.

Lonaconing policeman George Kirkwood warned Mrs. Kate Meyers, 73-year-old mother of Valley High School coach Johnny Meyers, as flames spread to her home, a two-story frame dwelling adjoining the burning garage.

Mrs. Meyers, who was in her front room writing a letter at the time, was able to flee before the flames consumed the interor of her home. Firemen moved quickly to remove much of Mrs. Meyers' belongings, furniture and Christmas gifts before her house was damaged by the fire. The household goods and most of Mrs. Meyers' Christmas packages were stored in the auditorium of the elementary school.

Route 36 was blocked and traffic was rerouted around the area.

and with the help of volunteers from the ladies auxiliary of the Lonaconing Fire Company, set up shop in the school cafeteria to prepare coffee and sandwiches for the firemen and to help the families who were burned out in the fire.

The hard-working women were handicapped by the loss of power in the school and had to use lanterns and candlelight to prepare the food. Students from the school and Valley High carried refreshments to firemen on trays.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Tidewater Fisheries Commission and the Game and Inland Fish Commission will meet jointly with Western Maryland sportsmen in Cumberland Jan. 8.

They will discuss a small boat licensing act to be submitted to the 1960 Legislature and acquaint Western Maryland interests with fisheries work now going on in tidewater sections.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, chairman of the TFC, said the session will be an evening meeting at a place to be arranged by the Allegany County delegation to the Legislature.

Senators and delegates from Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties are being invited to attend, he said.

Jimmy Neil Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, Kitzmiller, has re-enlisted in the Navy for six years and retained his former rating of Engineman Second Class.

He was transferred to the Naval Station in Washington, D. C. and was granted a 30-day reenlistment leave.

Murder Trial

dict Skitarelic, a Cumberland pathologist, and Dr. Henry C. Freimuth of Catonsville, who has been toxicologist for the State Medical Examiner's Office since 1944.

Dr. Rivera was called to the Schroyer tavern about 1 a. m. October 25 and saw the deceased lying dead on the floor in a second-floor apartment which he had occupied above the tavern. Dr. Feaster took a blood sample from the defendant at Garrett County Memorial Hospital at 3:15 a. m. October 25.

Dr. Skitarelic performed the autopsy upon Schroyer's body at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland. He informed the three judges that the deceased had about .14 per cent of ethyl alcohol in his blood. He also performed some tests with powder burns and concluded that the revolver which killed the tavern owner was held about four inches from his head.

Cites Alcohol In Blood

Dr. Freimuth testified about tests he made October 28, immediately upon receipt of a sample of Guard's blood which was delivered to him by State Police. He said there was about .12 per cent ethyl alcohol in the defendant's blood, which could cause a decrease in inhibitions, a decrease in judgment, and slowing of reaction time.

Other state witnesses called to the stand were Trooper First Class Robert D. Henline, Clifford Schroyer, 18, and Dale Schroyer, 15, two of the seven sons of the deceased, both of whom were in the tavern that night; Mrs. Myrtle Schroyer, also of Friendsville, the 62-year-old mother of the tavern operator; Ray Coddington, 23, also of Friendsville, who had been wrestling with the deceased in an apparent session of "making the fool"; Walter Lee Coddington, 17, and Robert Spear, 36, both witnesses to the shooting, and Sheriff Frantz, who had placed Guard under arrest about 2 a. m. Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: A few months ago we lost our only daughter in a car accident. She was a beautiful girl, 18 and in college. Lee's closest friend was her cousin Midge. They used to trade clothes back and forth regularly.

My husband and I felt Midge ought to have all Lee's lovely things as we couldn't bear to give them to strangers. A few weeks ago we packed everything and sent it to Midge's mother.

We learned yesterday all the clothes were given to a charity organization. The story was "they didn't fit." We know this is not possible since the girls traded clothes for years. I feel like telling the whole bunch off. My husband says I shouldn't mention it. Your advice will be appreciated.—HURT.

DEAR HURT: Don't mention it. Midge probably couldn't bear to wear Lee's clothes because of the strong emotional ties. In my opinion the family did what was best for Midge.

DEAR ANN: We've been married 23 years and our family is grown. Three years ago we bought a 4-family flat as an investment and hired a maintenance man. After two months my husband let the man go and said he could do the job in a few hours a day.

There turned out to be more work than he thought so he quit his steady job to do part-time TV repair work. Every day he goes to the roller skating rink with the young folks, to a movie, or has a friendly game of Red-dog with the firemen. I'm left to tend the furnace, wash windows, carry out the trash and take care of the tenants' complaints.

Last year I thought he'd show his appreciation by giving me a nice Christmas gift. He said "Merry Christmas" and gave me a peck on the cheek. If he does it again this year what shall I do? I think he's playing me for a fool. TIRED

DEAR TIRED: "Merry Christmas" indeed. Tell him "Happy Labor Day" and to get back to work at his steady job and hire a maintenance man because you just quit.

Any woman who would pinch hit as a janitor for a 4-family flat while her husband goes roller skating and to the movies must have oatmeal where her brains belong.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to say a word to Mrs. Experienced — the woman who is so miserable because she married "a homely little shrimp." And this goes for the thousands of women who secretly (and openly) feel they could have done better.

Could it be that SHE is on the homely side herself — maybe fat and sloppy? I'll bet if that little shrimp thought HE could have done better, he would have.

These women who let you know they married "beneath themselves" usually have a vastly exaggerated opinion of what they have to offer. From what I've seen, they're lucky to have found a man who'd have them. No first rate woman chops her husband down behind his back.

New Attack On The Blue Laws

Business and religious groups in several East Coast states have opened new legal attacks on "blue laws" — statutes prohibiting the sale of certain merchandise and the conduct of certain business on Sundays. One test case will be argued today before the New Jersey Supreme Court at Newark.

A leading opponent of New Jersey's blue law is the American Jewish Congress, which is challenging the law — in federal court, too — as a violation of religious freedom as guaranteed by the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution. The Jewish Sabbath is on Saturday.

Constitutionality of Pennsylvania's recently stiffened blue laws, dating back to 1794, now upheld by a three-judge federal court, is being appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. One argument in the Keystone State was that forcing Jews to observe Sunday as a day of rest was the same as compelling them to recognize Christianity. Virginia's Sunday-rest statutes also are under attack in both federal and state courts.

Opponents of blue laws will have to overcome legal precedent to win their cases. Originally designed to enforce observance of the Christian Sabbath, the statutes have been legally justified also on the basis of the state's power to protect the moral and physical welfare of the community. So ruled the United States Supreme Court as far back as 1895 (in Hennington v. Georgia).

As recently as 1951, a New York penal law to enforce the prohibition of "public selling" on Sunday was upheld in state court over the defendant's objection that it was both a preference of religion and a denial of religious freedom (People v. Friedman).

More About Candidates

Nelson Rockefeller is putting up a stiff campaign for the Republican nomination. His trips about the country are window-dressing. The realistic activity is, as usual, the search for delegates, some of whom are, in various ways, purchasable. South of the Mason-Dixon Line, in states which Republicans rarely carry, the principal value in being a Republican politician is what comes from the National Convention. There can be a living in it.

Vice President Richard Nixon remains the choice of the organized Republican Party in most states. Even in New York State, professional Republicans believe that the party has a better chance with Nixon than with Rockefeller. On the other hand, Rockefeller will naturally control the delegation as Thomas E. Dewey did before him. This is an enormous asset.

President Eisenhower's glamorous success on his trip to Europe and Asia has strengthened the Republican Party throughout the country. It is the party of experience, most Americans feel. On the other hand, the trade union bosses have shown no indication of moving from the Democrats to the Republicans. When Rockefeller ran for Governor of the State of New York, he could count on some labor votes switching to him. He cannot count on that in a Presidential election.

It is beginning to look as though the Democratic Party is developing a test of strength between Harry Truman who speaks for the organized party and the Eleanor Roosevelt-Herbert Lehman radicals who would reinstitute the New Deal. It has been forgotten perhaps that when Truman became President he shifted from the New Deal to the Fair Deal, from those who had surrounded Roosevelt to a group of his own friends and advisers. No matter what else may be said about Truman as President, he was nobody's man, not even the ghost of Roosevelt's. This was more evident in his second term after he had surprisingly defeated Dewey by his own strength against all odds.

Since the election of Eisenhower, three personalities have made themselves effective in Democratic Party affairs. They are Harry Truman, Eleanor Roosevelt and Adlai Stevenson.

Truman's natural humor, his salty, down-to-earth understanding of the machinery of political operations, his close relationship to the authentic leadership in Congress give him extraordinary strength.

Eleanor Roosevelt cannot be ignored. She is in control of the remnants of the most powerful political organization ever developed in this country, namely the Roosevelt New Deal. This was an omnibus political catch-all, including divergent groups and antagonistic personalities who were united in the various programs of Frankln D. Roosevelt. Most of what is left of this is in the A.D.A., the Americans for Democratic Action, and in the less important National Democratic Advisory Council. These two organizations, which overlap in personalities and programs, hope to have an enormous voice at the Democratic Convention. Presently, their candidate might be Hubert Humphrey or John Kennedy, although they would settle, and preferably, for Adlai Stevenson, twice defeated Democratic candidate.

Adlai Stevenson is an anomaly. He is not particularly handsome. Short, partly bald, he can be and is passed by in the street without much notice. While he is regarded by his followers as an intelligence of a high order, neither his speeches nor his writings display any extraordinary intellectual acumen. Regarded as the acme of executive ability, his career as Governor of Illinois was not sparkling nor did it give evidence of administrative genius.

Despite his two defeats, however, Stevenson remains popular among Democrats, particularly among the former Rooseveltians. He attracts liberals to himself as honey attracts flies. Ask them why they adore him and they usually cannot tell you. He is one of the ah! ah! human beings, in whose presence maidens swoon in ecstasy.

Why? What magic power does this rather obscure person possess? Such questions are for the psychologist rather than for the political analyst. Perhaps as Presidents Harding and Coolidge fitted the Jazz Age, or as someone called it, the Era of Magnificent Nonsense, so Adlai Stevenson exemplifies the Era of the Beatniks. Whatever it may be, Stevenson cannot be ignored prior to the 1960 Democratic Convention. After that, who can forecast the fate of politicians, who, like actors, are often temporarily of some slight significance on the stage of life?

'Can't Hear You, Ike—Can You Come Closer?'

Pearson Missed Papal Audience Nearly Missed Nehru Interview

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson, who managed to interview most of the world leaders Eisenhower interviewed and did it in advance of the President, today tells part of the story of how he did it.)

EN ROUTE—I have now left President Eisenhower's historic route through Europe, Asia, and Africa, and will endeavor to interview some other important leaders vital to the defense of the free world.

Going around the world in eighty days may have been a tough job, but I submit that going round the world in thirty days and interviewing the world's top leaders in advance of the President was tougher. If any of you don't believe me, try it yourself.

I had bad luck at the start, fairly good luck afterward. The bad luck started over the Atlantic on the first leg of the journey. I was in a trans-Atlantic plane flying direct to Spain to see Generalissimo Franco when one engine of the plane conked out. We were four hours out of New York. The pilot decided that rather than try to make the Azores he had better come back to New York. Instead of being in Madrid at 10 a. m. I found myself back in New York at 2 a. m. with one day lost.

Jets Don't Respect Pope

Pope John was to give me an audience at 4:30 the following afternoon so I decided to skip Spain and head direct for Rome.

I booked passage on a jet scheduled to arrive at 11 a. m. in ample time for a 4:30 p. m. audience in the Vatican. But the jet didn't leave New York until two hours late and proceeded to lose time all the way across the Atlantic. With me fidgeting and fuming over the delays, it puttered around London, then Paris, until we finally got to Rome, not at 11 a. m., but 5 p. m.—thirty minutes too late for my audience with the Pope.

Next morning the Pope was busy with a special commemorating service for the cardinals who had died during the year. It was a beautiful ceremony, and I attended, then went on to interview President Gronchi and Premier Segni of Italy, leaving that evening for Greece and Turkey.

Everything went fine here, except for a close connection in Istanbul, where Altimur Killic, former Turkish press attaches in Washington, held the Turkish plane. So I was able to get to Ankara in time for an interview with President Celal Bayar.

Next midnight I left for Teheran, arriving there at 7:15 a. m. Fortunately, I shaved on the plan.

Shah Before Breakfast

A representative of the Shah was at the airport and took me to the royal palace. There, I found the minister of court was Houssein Ala, former Iranian ambassador to Washington, who had fought that gallant U. N. battle against Russian aggression in 1946 when the Soviet army invaded northern Iran. Ala remembered my column warning that the Soviet army was in northern Iran. I got in to see the Shah before breakfast.

The toughest part of the trip was between Pakistan and Afghanistan. It took two days fuming and freting in the airports of Karachi and Kandahar, southern Afghanistan, for the weather to clear sufficiently to reach Kabul. Pilots cancel flights over these mountains on five minutes' notice, and when you see how close they have to fly through these mountain passes you can't blame them.

Finally I reached Kabul, had an interview with the King of Afghanistan and his Prime Minister Prince Daoud, then learned that my flight back to India was cancelled. It was Thursday night, I had an interview with Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi at 11:30 a. m. Saturday, and no airplane flying there until Monday.

At 3 a. m. Friday I started driving. The mountains are high over the Kushan Pass with gorges below so deep you can't see the bottom and curves so sharp you almost run into camel caravans plodding their way up to Afghanistan from Baluchistan. The road wound through the Khyber Pass made famous by Kipling's tales of Afghan raids on the British. The little forts on top of every peak in the pass are still there and show how carefully the British had to guard against these raids. In fact the pass is bristling with Pakistani troops still alert against the Afghans.

Finally I got to Peshawar, the old British military post, now dominated by the U. S. Air Force, and caught a plane to Lahore, Pakistan, on the Indian border. They had told me the border closed sometime around 6:30, so I jumped into a taxi and goaded the driver into driving at breakneck speed for the border. On the other side was the Frontier Mail, last train from the Indian city of Amritsar to New Delhi.

The taxi driver did pretty well. We reached the border at 6 p. m. It had been closed since 5:30.

This meant no interview with Nehru at 11:30 next morning. For there was no other possible way to get there. I started talking to the Pakistan authorities. They were quite sympathetic and agreed to let me across.

They stamped my passport and baggage and I started walking through that lonesome stretch of no man's land that separates all international boundaries. There were no troops, no people, no automobiles—just you and your baggage carried by a couple of turbaned bearers, with plenty of fixed sabres patrolling behind both sides of the barbed wire.

The Pakistanis and the Indians hate each other, so I hadn't told the Pakistanis that I was going to interview Nehru. I saved this as the trump card to be used on the Indians. But the Indians eyed me with the fishy skepticism of a U. S. immigration official scrutinizing a Chinese Communist who says he wants to interview President Eisenhower.

For half an hour I was waiting outside the huge gate that shuts India off from no man's land, while the minutes ticked away, and the Frontier Mail, last train to New Delhi, due to leave at 7:30.

(Editor's Note—The story of how Pearson tried to get to India to keep his appointment with Premier Nehru will be continued tomorrow.)

U.S. Must Leave No Room For Doubt In NATO

By Joseph Alsop

PARIS

The inner history of a recent moment of tension in the Atlantic Alliance, which has never been told quite correctly, is worth telling now for the light it sheds on the West's current frictions.

In brief, the able Secretary General of NATO, Paul-Henri Spaak, not long ago made a trip to Washington, where he heard about the Treasury-Budget Bureau drive to recall two American divisions from Europe. On his return to Paris, Spaak passed the word among the NATO allies that they had better meet their NATO pledges more faithfully, lest the American departure from Europe begin. He cited as evidence the serious argument then going on in Washington about the two divisions.

A little later, German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer came to Paris, to visit his old friend Gen. de Gaulle. He was first received by the French Prime Minister, Michel Debre. In his talk with Adenauer, Debre mentioned Spaak's warning, but not as proof of the need to meet all NATO pledges. He used it, rather, as proof that the European nations had better begin planning how to defend themselves when and if the Americans should have departed. Adenauer did not take it in a matter of fact spirit, however.

The Chancellor was both horrified by the mere mention of the possibility of American withdrawal and enraged because Debre did not appear to be equally horrified. In the sequal, Adenauer was reassured by Gen. de Gaulle. The French President both declared his absolute loyalty to the Atlantic Alliance, and assured Adenauer that he too would regard an American withdrawal from Europe as a real catastrophe. Yet the incident still left a small residue of disquiet in the minds of the Germans.

This fragment of inner history is so interesting because it says much about two quite different sets of problems — those confronting Gen. de Gaulle and those confonting President Eisenhower. For de Gaulle, in brief, the Adenauer-Debre incident implied the existence of certain limits beyond which French policy cannot safely go.

In theory, of course, de Gaulle can engineer a classic "reversal of alliances," by reviving the Franco-Russian pact of the past. In practice, as he indicated to Adenauer, nothing could be further from de Gaulle's thoughts. But if he does not wish to reverse his alliances, de Gaulle cannot go too far in the direction of the old fashioned, freely maneuvering, purely national diplomacy which is natural to him. If he seems to attack the unity of the West of the workability of NATO, de Gaulle will face a solid, angry united front of all the other Western powers, headed by his own particular friend, the German Chancellor.

For President Eisenhower, meanwhile, the Adenauer-Debre incident also had certain unpalatable implications. In Europe generally, and here in France particularly, there are growing doubts about the firmness of America's position as a partner in Europe. The twist Premier Debre gave to Secretary Spaak's warning plainly suggests how easily these doubts can be aroused and how strong they can become.

Since arriving here, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has been working hard and well to still these doubts. Having taken the lead in blocking the Treasury-Budget Bureau drive to recall the two divisions, Herter is now manfully seeking to tidy up that drive's unfortunate after-effects but it would surely have been better if the President had told the Treasury and Budget Bureau at the outset that the subject could not even be discussed at this time. Then Secretary Herter would not need to keep assuring the Europeans we are here to stay, while he quite properly urges them to bear their own share of the burden of Western defense.

But the job to be done cannot be entirely done by Secretary Herter. The President himself will have to finish the job.

Eisenhower must also reach agreement with de Gaulle on the right ways to tidy up the present disarray of the West in preparation for the summit meeting with Khrushchev. The first requirement for tidying up this Western disarray is to leave no room for any question about the permanency of the American commitment of the defense of the West.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

KENNEDY—The birth control issue has Washington buzzing about the politicial fortunes of prospective Presidential candidates of both parties. But Senator John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat, is the name most heard most often when the issue's effect on an aspirant is mentioned.

The Catholic bishops of the United States issued a statemet opposing the use of government funds to encourage artificial methods of birth control anywhere in the world. Their statement was made with an eye to U. S. foreign aid programs benefitting some countries known to be struggling under the burden of a post-war population "explosion."

Foreign air program officials replied that no U. S. funds are being used for this purpose, although some of the foreign governments being aided are known to be encouraging birth control as a means of solving pressing economic problems. Further, President Eisenhower said no U. S. funds should be used for birth control.

Most of the Presidential aspirants responded to the bishops' statement with views of their own. However, Kennedy, a communicant of the Roman Catholic church, has received the most attention.

His position on the issue is generally conceded to be proper, statesmanlike and acceptable, both from the political and the Catholic viewpoint. Essentially, as a Catholic, he says, United States funds and programs should not be used to encourage birth control, but neither should the U. S. government withhold economic aid from some country which itself was trying to encourage such controls.

Despite his stand, Washington political observers believe Kennedy's chances for nomination have been hurt by the issue. They believe that emotionalism rather than reason will prevail and that many potential voters will take the position that where there is the slightest doubt about the religious restrictions on a President, the best course is to pick someone else.

Another Probe

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — The market in shares of the small Cherry-Burrell Corp. on the American Stock Exchange has proved no bowl of cherries for recent stock buyers.

The stock went from $13 to $34.87½ over an 11-week period. Then in four days it broke to $21.

Just after the stock made its all time high, a group disclosed it was launching a proxy fight for control.

Three days later the "group" changed its mind after conferring with the SEC. It said there would be no proxy fight.

The stock after selling at $34 on December 14 — off slightly from its all-time high — was down to $21 three days later.

This is the second "on-again-off-again" proxy battle in recent weeks. In both the general investing public has lost money.

The other situation was in Alleghany Corp., where A. M. Sonnabend, the Boston hotel and real estate man, first announced that he and a group of associates had acquired 700,000 shares and found they had no choice but to seek a new board of directors.

Then, Mr. Sonnabend disclaimed any intention of making a proxy fight "now" and insisted that the "group of associates" after all wasn't a group.

Alleghany shares on an unusually large jump in trading volume hit a new high for the year at $15.37½ and then on the disclaimer of a proxy fight "now" fell to $12.25.

The pattern in Cherry-Burrell was similar. Trading from a weekly volume of 800 shares jumped to 24,000 shares and in the December 6-11 week the turn over was 79,400 shares. That was 17 per cent of the outstanding common shares of this small maker of dairy processing equipment.

The SEC is investigating the market from September, calling for a report on all buyers and sellers in the period. The SEC should make public its findings, along wtih the names of the buyers and sellers of any substantial amounts.

It investigated the Alleghany market, but as yet there has been no disclosure as to Mr. Sonnabend's actual purchases. Nor the identities of his "associates" and their purchases and sales.

The heart of the SEC regulations is full disclosures, so that markets in any given share are orderly. The Washington head office so far takes the stand this is none of the public's business — even after investors may have been whipsawed. Also, the Washington office seems little concerned about statements to the press.

Surgical Wonders Not A Modern Development

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A California oral surgeon got the surprise of his life when a 61 year old woman referred to his office handed him an X-ray of her left jaw. There was a fracture of the jaw but the break was through silver rather than bone. The metal prosthesis had been in place 51 years and had worked perfectly.

Dr. Marsh Robinson of Santa Monica reported this story in the Journal of the American Medical association. When this woman was 10 years old, a bone cancer developed in the lower jaw and the famous Chicago surgeon, John B. Murphy, removed the left mandible to save her life.

The missing bone was replaced with a metal jaw and the patient had no difficulty until a lower tooth was extracted under general anesthesia. The metal was broken at that time. It caused no distress but she was suspicious because her lower teeth did not fit properly against the uppers.

We tend to be smug about the prowess of our modern surgeons but many of the oldtimers did ingenious operations under adverse conditions. They were pioneers in the field and improvised as they went along. These men used common sense and had excellent judgment and much courage.

Dr. Ephraim McDowell successfully removed a huge ovarian tumor in 1809. It was done in the kitchen of his home with an angry mob standing outside, ready to lynch him should the patient die. She knew and he knew that removal of the tumor offered the only chance of survival. Five days after the operation, Dr. McDowell found his patient walking about the room, making the bed. The operation represented 25 minutes of agony but this woman won 32 years of life, dying at age 79.

President Grover Cleveland was found to have cancer of the hard palate in 1893. Surgeons removed the roof of his mouth along with the entire left upper jaw. The procedure was done on a private yacht while proceeding at half-speed up the East River in New York. Cleveland was fitted with an artificial jaw made of vulcanized rubber. The job was so good no one suspected and the story was told only after he died, 15 years later.

New Attack On The Blue Laws

Business and religious groups in several East Coast states have opened new legal attacks on "blue laws" — statutes prohibiting the sale of certain merchandise and the conduct of certain business on Sundays. One test case will be argued today before the New Jersey Supreme Court at Newark.

A leading opponent of New Jersey's blue law is the American Jewish Congress, which is challenging the law — in federal court, too — as a violation of religious freedom as guaranteed by the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution. The Jewish Sabbath is on Saturday.

Constitutionality of Pennsylvania's recently stiffened blue laws, dating back to 1794, now upheld by a three-judge federal court, is being appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. One argument in the Keystone State was that forcing Jews to observe Sunday as a day of rest was the same as compelling them to recognize Christianity. Virginia's Sunday-rest statutes also are under attack in both federal and state courts.

Opponents of blue laws will have to overcome legal precedent to win their cases. Originally designed to enforce observance of the Christian Sabbath, the statutes have been legally justified also on the basis of the state's power to protect the moral and physical welfare of the community. So ruled the United States Supreme Court as far back as 1895 (in Hennington v. Georgia).

As recently as 1951, a New York penal law to enforce the prohibition of "public selling" on Sunday was upheld in state court over the defendant's objection that it was both a preference of religion and a denial of religious freedom (People v. Friedman).

More About Candidates

Nelson Rockefeller is putting up a stiff campaign for the Republican nomination. His trips about the country are window-dressing. The realistic activity is, as usual, the search for delegates, some of whom are, in various ways, purchasable. South of the Mason-Dixon Line, in states which Republicans rarely carry, the principal value in being a Republican politician is what comes from the National Convention. There can be a living in it.

Vice President Richard Nixon remains the choice of the organized Republican Party in most states. Even in New York State, professional Republicans believe that the party has a better chance with Nixon than with Rockefeller. On the other hand, Rockefeller will naturally control the delegation as Thomas E. Dewey did before him. This is an enormous asset.

President Eisenhower's glamorous success on his trip to Europe and Asia has strengthened the Republican Party throughout the country. It is the party of experience, most Americans feel. On the other hand, the trade union bosses have shown no indication of moving from the Democrats to the Republicans. When Rockefeller ran for Governor of the State of New York, he could count on some labor votes switching to him. He cannot count on that in a Presidential election.

It is beginning to look as though the Democratic Party is developing a test of strength between Harry Truman who speaks for the organized party and the Eleanor Roosevelt-Herbert Lehman radicals who would reinstitute the New Deal. It has been forgotten perhaps that when Truman became President he shifted from the New Deal to the Fair Deal, from those who had surrounded Roosevelt to a group of his own friends and advisers. No matter what else may be said about Truman as President, he was nobody's man, not even the ghost of Roosevelt's. This was more evident in his second term after he had surprisingly defeated Dewey by his own strength against all odds.

Since the election of Eisenhower, three personalities have made themselves effective in Democratic Party affairs. They are Harry Truman, Eleanor Roosevelt and Adlai Stevenson.

Truman's natural humor, his salty, down-to-earth understanding of the machinery of political operations, his close relationship to the authentic leadership in Congress give him extraordinary strength.

Eleanor Roosevelt cannot be ignored. She is in control of the remnants of the most powerful political organization ever developed in this country, namely the Roosevelt New Deal. This was an omnibus political catch-all, including divergent groups and antagonistic personalities who were united in the various programs of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Most of what is left of this is in the A.D.A., the Americans for Democratic Action, and in the less important National Democratic Advisory Council. These two organizations, which overlap in personalities and programs, hope to have an enormous voice at the Democratic Convention. Presently, their candidate might be Hubert Humphrey or John Kennedy, although they would settle, and preferably, for Adlai Stevenson, twice defeated Democratic candidate.

Adlai Stevenson is an anomaly. He is not particularly handsome. Short, partly bald, he can be and is passed by in the street without much notice. While he is regarded by his followers as an intelligence of a high order, neither his speeches nor his writings display any extraordinary intellectual acumen. Regarded as the acme of executive ability, his career as Governor of Illinois was not sparkling nor did it give evidence of administrative genius.

Despite his two defeats, however, Stevenson remains popular among Democrats, particularly among the former Rooseveltians. He attracts liberals to himself as honey attracts flies. Ask them why they adore him and they usually cannot tell you. He is one of the ah! ah! human beings, in whose presence maidens swoon in ecstasy.

Why? What magic power does this rather obscure person possess? Such questions are for the psychologist rather than for the political analyst. Perhaps as Presidents Harding and Coolidge fitted the Jazz Age, or as someone called it, the Era of Magnificent Nonsense, so Adlai Stevenson exemplifies the Era of the Beatniks. Whatever it may be, Stevenson cannot be ignored prior to the 1960 Democratic Convention. After that, who can forecast the fate of politicians, who, like actors, are often temporarily of some slight significance on the stage of life?

U.S. Must Leave No Room For Doubt In NATO

By Joseph Alsop

PARIS

The inner history of a recent moment of tension in the Atlantic Alliance, which has never been told quite correctly, is worth telling now for the light it sheds on the West's current frictions.

In brief, the able Secretary General of NATO, Paul-Henri Spaak, not long ago made a trip to Washington, where he heard about the Treasury-Budget Bureau drive to recall two American divisions from Europe. On his return to Paris, Spaak passed the word among the NATO allies that they had better meet their NATO pledges more faithfully, lest the American departure from Europe begin. He cited as evidence the serious argument then going on in Washington about the two divisions.

A little later, German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer came to Paris, to visit his old friend Gen. de Gaulle. He was first received by the French Prime Minister, Michel Debre. In his talk with Adenauer, Debre mentioned Spaak's warning, but not as proof of the need to meet all NATO pledges. He used it, rather, as proof that the European nations had better begin planning how to defend themselves when and if the Americans should have departed. Adenauer did not take it in a matter of fact spirit, however.

The Chancellor was both horrified by the mere mention of the possibility of American withdrawal and enraged because Debre did not appear to be equally horrified. In the sequal, Adenauer was reassured by Gen. de Gaulle. The French President both declared his absolute loyalty to the Atlantic Alliance, and assured Adenauer that he too would regard an American withdrawal from Europe as a real catastrophe. Yet the incident still left a small residue of disquiet in the minds of the Germans.

This fragment of inner history is so interesting because it says much about two quite different sets of problems — those confronting Gen. de Gaulle and those confonting President Eisenhower. For de Gaulle, in brief, the Adenauer-Debre incident implied the existence of certain limits beyond which French policy cannot safely go.

In theory, of course, de Gaulle can engineer a classic "reversal of alliances," by reviving the Franco-Russian pact of the past. In practice, as he indicated to Adenauer, nothing could be further from de Gaulle's thoughts. But if he does not wish to reverse his alliances, de Gaulle cannot go too far in the direction of the old fashioned, freely maneuvering, purely national diplomacy which is natural to him. If he seems to attack the unity of the West of the workability of NATO, de Gaulle will face a solid, angry united front of all the other Western powers, headed by his own particular friend, the German Chancellor.

For President Eisenhower, meanwhile, the Adenauer-Debre incident also had certain unpalatable implications. In Europe generally, and here in France particularly, there are growing doubts about the firmness of America's position as a partner in Europe. The twist Premier Debre gave to Secretary Spaak's warning plainly suggests how easily these doubts can be aroused and how strong they can become.

Since arriving here, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has been working hard and well to still these doubts. Having taken the lead in blocking the Treasury-Budget Bureau drive to recall the two divisions, Herter is now manfully seeking to tidy up that drive's unfortunate after-effects but it would surely have been better if the President had told the Treasury and Budget Bureau at the outset that the subject could not even be discussed at this time. Then Secretary Herter would not need to keep assuring the Europeans we are here to stay, while he quite properly urges them to bear their own share of the burden of Western defense.

But the job to be done cannot be entirely done by Secretary Herter. The President himself will have to finish the job.

Eisenhower must also reach agreement with de Gaulle on the right ways to tidy up the present disarray of the West in preparation for the summit meeting with Khrushchev. The first requirement for tidying up this Western disarray is to leave no room for any question about the permanency of the American commitment of the defense of the West.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

KENNEDY—The birth control issue has Washington buzzing about the politicial fortunes of prospective Presidential candidates of both parties. But Senator John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat, is the name most heard most often when the issue's effect on an aspirant is mentioned.

The Catholic bishops of the United States issued a statemet opposing the use of government funds to encourage artificial methods of birth control anywhere in the world. Their statement was made with an eye to U. S. foreign aid programs benefitting some countries known to be struggling under the burden of a post-war population "explosion."

Foreign air program officials replied that no U. S. funds are being used for this purpose, although some of the foreign governments being aided are known to be encouraging birth control as a means of solving pressing economic problems. Further, President Eisenhower said no U. S. funds should be used for birth control.

Most of the Presidential aspirants responded to the bishops' statement with views of their own. However, Kennedy, a communicant of the Roman Catholic church, has received the most attention.

His position on the issue is generally conceded to be proper, statesmanlike and acceptable, both from the political and the Catholic viewpoint. Essentially, as a Catholic, he says, United States funds and programs should not be used to encourage birth control, but neither should the U. S. government withhold economic aid from some country which itself was trying to encourage such controls.

Despite his stand, Washington political observers believe Kennedy's chances for nomination have been hurt by the issue. They believe that emotionalism rather than reason will prevail and that many potential voters will take the position that where there is the slightest doubt about the religious restrictions on a President, the best course is to pick someone else.

Pearson Missed Papal Audience Nearly Missed Nehru Interview

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson, who managed to interview most of the world leaders Eisenhower interviewed and did it in advance of the President, today tells part of the story of how he did it.)

By Drew Pearson

EN ROUTE—I have now left President Eisenhower's historic route through Europe, Asia, and Africa, and will endeavor to interview some other important leaders vital to the defense of the free world.

Going around the world in eighty days may have been a tough job, but I submit that going round the world in thirty days and interviewing the world's top leaders in advance of the President was tougher. If any of you don't believe me, try it yourself.

I had bad luck at the start, fairly good luck afterward. The bad luck started over the Atlantic on the first leg of the journey. I was in a trans-Atlantic plane flying direct to Spain to see Generalissimo Franco when one engine of the plane conked out. We were four hours out of New York. The pilot decided that rather than try to make the Azores he had better come back to New York. Instead of being in Madrid at 10 a. m. I found myself back in New York at 2 a. m. with one day lost.

Jets Don't Respect Pope

Pope John was to give me an audience at 4:30 the following afternoon so I decided to skip Spain and head direct for Rome.

I booked passage on a jet scheduled to arrive at 11 a. m. in ample time for a 4:30 p. m. audience in the Vatican. But the jet didn't leave New York until two hours late and proceeded to lose time all the way across the Atlantic. With me fidgeting and fuming over the delays, it puttered around London, then Paris, until we finally got to Rome, not at 11 a. m., but 5 p. m.—thirty minutes too late for my audience with the Pope.

Next morning the Pope was busy with a special commemorating service for the cardinals who had died during the year. It was a beautiful ceremony, and I attended, then went on to interview President Gronchi and Premier Segni of Italy, leaving that evening for Greece and Turkey.

Everything went fine here, except for a close connection in Istanbul, where Altimur Killic, former Turkish press attaches in Washington, held the Turkish plane. So I was able to get to Ankara in time for an interview with President Celal Bayar.

Next midnight I left for Teheran, arriving there at 7:15 a. m. Fortunately, I shaved on the plan.

Shah Before Breakfast

A representative of the Shah was at the airport and took me to the royal palace. There, I found the minister of court was Houssein Ala, former Iranian ambassador to Washington, who had fought that gallant U. N. battle against Russian aggression in 1946 when the Soviet army invaded northern Iran. Ala remembered my column warning that the Soviet army was in northern Iran. I got in to see the Shah before breakfast.

The toughest part of the trip was between Pakistan and Afghanistan. It took two days fuming and freting in the airports of Karachi and Kandahar, southern Afghanistan, for the weather to clear sufficiently to reach Kabul. Pilots cancel flights over these mountains on five minutes' notice, and when you see how close they have to fly through these mountain passes you can't blame them.

Finally I reached Kabul, had an interview with the King of Afghanistan and his Prime Minister Prince Daoud, then learned that my flight back to India was cancelled. It was Thursday night, I had an interview with Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi at 11:30 a. m. Saturday, and no airplane flying there until Monday.

At 3 a. m. Friday I started driving. The mountains are high over the Kushan Pass with gorges below so deep you can't see the bottom and curves so sharp you almost run into camel caravans plodding their way up to Afghanistan from Baluchistan. The road wound through the Khyber Pass made famous by Kipling's tales of Afghan raids on the British. The little forts on top of every peak in the pass are still there and show how carefully the British had to guard against these raids. In fact the pass is bristling with Pakistani troops still alert against the Afghans.

Finally I got to Peshawar, the old British military post, now dominated by the U. S. Air Force, and caught a plane to Lahore, Pakistan, on the Indian border. They had told me the border closed sometime around 6:30, so I jumped into a taxi and goaded the driver into driving at breakneck speed for the border. On the other side was the Frontier Mail, last train from the Indian city of Amritsar to New Delhi.

The taxi driver did pretty well. We reached the border at 6 p. m. It had been closed since 5:30.

This meant no interview with Nehru at 11:30 next morning. For there was no other possible way to get there. I started talking to the Pakistan authorities. They were quite sympathetic and agreed to let me across.

They stamped my passport and baggage and I started walking through that lonesome stretch of no man's land that separates all international boundaries. There were no troops, no people, no automobiles—just you and your baggage carried by a couple of turbaned bearers, with plenty of fixed sabres patrolling behind both sides of the barbed wire.

The Pakistanis and the Indians hate each other, so I hadn't told the Pakistanis that I was going to interview Nehru. I saved this as the trump card to be used on the Indians. But the Indians eyed me with the fishy skepticism of a U. S. immigration official scrutinizing a Chinese Communist who says he wants to interview President Eisenhower.

For half an hour I was waiting outside the huge gate that shuts India off from no man's land, while the minutes ticked away, and the Frontier Mail, last train to New Delhi, due to leave at 7:30.

Another Probe

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — The market in shares of the small Cherry-Burrell Corp. on the American Stock Exchange has proved no bowl of cherries for recent stock buyers.

The stock went from $13 to $34.87½ over an 11-week period. Then in four days it broke to $21.

Just after the stock made its all time high, a group disclosed it was launching a proxy fight for control.

Three days later the "group" changed its mind after conferring with the SEC. It said there would be no proxy fight.

The stock after selling at $34 on December 14 — off slightly from its all-time high — was down to $21 three days later.

This is the second "on-again-off-again" proxy battle in recent weeks. In both the general investing public has lost money.

The other situation was in Alleghany Corp., where A. M. Sonnabend, the Boston hotel and real estate man, first announced that he and a group of associates had acquired 700,000 shares and found they had no choice but to seek a new board of directors.

Then, Mr. Sonnabend disclaimed any intention of making a proxy fight "now" and insisted that the "group of associates" after all wasn't a group.

Alleghany shares on an unusually large jump in trading volume hit a new high for the year at $15.37½ and then on the disclaimer of a proxy fight "now" fell to $12.25.

The pattern in Cherry-Burrell was similar. Trading from a weekly volume of 800 shares jumped to 24,000 shares and in the December 6-11 week the turn over was 79,400 shares. That was 17 per cent of the outstanding common shares of this small maker of dairy processing equipment.

The SEC is investigating the market from September, calling for a report on all buyers and sellers in the period. The SEC should make public its findings, along wtih the names of the buyers and sellers of any substantial amounts.

It investigated the Alleghany market, but as yet there has been no disclosure as to Mr. Sonnabend's actual purchases. Nor the identities of his "associates" and their purchases and sales.

The heart of the SEC regulations is full disclosures, so that markets in any given share are orderly. The Washington head office so far takes the stand this is none of the public's business — even after investors may have been whipsawed. Also, the Washington office seems little concerned about statements to the press.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—If Gary Crosby goes out with his brothers again on their nightclub act, he will have to return by February, because 20th Century-Fox has exercised its commitment with Gary. He has been put into "The Alaskans" with John Wayne's brother. Although there was considerable publicity when the boys closed their act in Toronto after a family squabble, I don't think anything will ever be serious enough to really break up the boys.

"The Alaskans" is a big picture. You know it would have to be when John Wayne consented to star in it after saying he wouldn't make any more pictures for a while. Writer Claude Binyon is now making some changes in the script, and Henry Hathaway will be producer-director.

That explosive prima donna of opera and romance — who else could I mean but Maria Callas?—is negotiating to star in the film version of Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow." But no Hollywood movie making for Maria—not on your life. Too far away from her heart "interest". The producer with whom Callas is talking is Captain Gunther Von Stopenhorst, former UFA producer, who will make the picture in Vienna in both English and German.

Maria, an American, speaks very good German. Her role is the same that Mae Murray, and later Jeanette MacDonald, starred in for MGM during various years. I understand MGM's rights to "The Merry Widow" have expired.

An estatically happy Betty Hutton told me that Bob Hope is just the greatest — as if we didn't know. She telephoned to ask him if he would be on her TV series in February. "I'm just available Joe", he replied, "when do you want me?" So Betty arranged with him to do an acting part when he comes back from Alaska.

"You know," she said, "our guest stars are all through the story. I have Phil Harris one week, and the next Alice Faye. Phil will play Colonel Barker, manager of Ringading Rooney."

I hadn't heard from Betty since she and Alan Livingston parted, so I was very surprised, but very glad to receive her call.

Those famous pigtails of Judy Canova's have been sold for $1000 apiece—yep, with the bows tied on them just as they were when the hair was attached to Judy's head.

The reason for this peculiar sale is this: Judy was mistress of ceremonies at the cerebral palsy telethon at Quincy, Ill., (How well I remember Quincy where I so proudly received my Doctor of Letters degree last June) when $38,000 had been raised in the little college town. Judy wanted so much to make it an even $40,000. Then she thought of her precious possession, her pigtails, and asked if someone would pay her price. $1,000 for each hank of hair. Two charity minded gentlemen complied within a matter of minutes. Judy said she hadn't been so happy since she signed for her comeback movie, "Huckleberry Finn" at MGM.

Information comes to me, "the Zsa Zsa Gabor romance with Sidney M. Barton is on the level and it may very well be the real thing" — which is exactly the wording word for word two years ago, when Zsa Zsa's romance with Hal Hayes, started. This, however, could very well be the real thing!

Just to brief you on Mr. Barton, he is a member of the New York Youth Board (youth being a specialty of Zsa Zsa's). But seriously Barton does a great deal of philanthropic work for the New York Cardiac Home and other charities. He made his millions in real estate and is the most successful leaseback operator in the country. Also he owns a stable of horses which will run at Santa Anita this winter.

Jack Lemmon says he's looking forward to a gourmet's field day for himself as soon as he completes "The Apartment" early next year. When he was supposed to start "The Wackiest Ship in the Army" for Fred Kohlmar at Columbia, Freddie told him he was too thin for a role that called for him to be overweight. So Jack put on 22 pounds living it up in Europe.

Then "The Apartment" was put ahead of "Wackiest Ship" so Jack locked himself in Dick Quine's beach house at Malibu, and went on a starvation diet. Let's face it, the life of a movie star is not always easy.

Pineapple Cherry Pie For Holidays

Holiday-bright Pineapple Cherry Pie teams two fruit flavors in a winning combination that will delight your family all through the Christmas season.

You'll want to serve it often and you can because it's so easy to make.

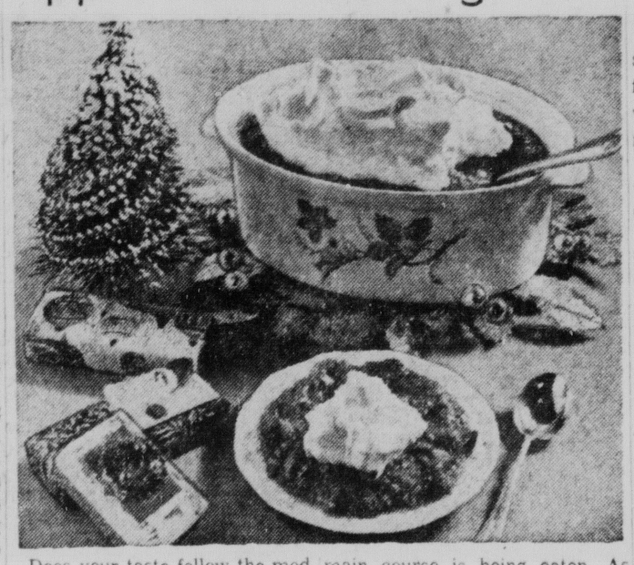
You start with canned pineapple and cherries so the job is almost done for you! For a prize-winning crust, sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour and 1 teaspoon salt. Cut or rub in ⅔ cup shortening until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle with 2 to 4 tablespoons cold water, mixing lightly until dough begins to stick together. Divide dough in half. Roll one half to circle ⅛ inch thick and fit into 9-inch pie pan. Roll remaining half of dough for top crust.

For Pineapple Cherry Filling, mix 1⅔ cups drained crushed pineapple (1 pound, 4 ounce can), 1¾ cups drained unsweetened red tart cherries (1 pound, 4 ounce can) and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix ¼ cup sifted enriched flour, ¼ to ⅓ cup sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt. Add flour mixture to fruit mixture and stir well with a fork. Turn Pineapple Cherry Filling into bottom crust. Arrange top crust over filling. Trim and flute edge.

Prick or slash pastry to allow steam to escape.

Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate oven (375°F.) and bake about 25 minutes longer. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Apple-Rum Pudding



Does your taste follow the modern trend toward desserts light and discreetly sweet rather than rich and heavy? Then this new Christmas Apple - Rum Pudding will be to your liking.

Flavory, festive, with the elegant air you want for a holiday dessert. But at the same time, it's light, mellow, not too sweet, satisfies but leaves you still full of bounce.

Apple-Rum Pudding is a fruity blend of canned apple sauce and raisins, brown sugar, spiced with cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg, made crunchy with pecans. And all through it is the taste of rum, to remind you of the holiday season.

Apple-Rum Pudding is modern, also, in simplicity of preparation. One little hint — the pudding is most tempting when the apple sauce mixture ripens first for twenty-four hours in the refrigerator. Then when the time comes, heat slightly, pour into the baking dish, add the froth of meringue to toast golden . . . and slide the pudding in to bake while the main course is being eaten. As simple as that.

Combine apple sauce, brown sugar, pecans, raisins, rum, cinnamon, nutmeg and allspice. Heat; pour into casserole. Beat egg whites stiff with rotary egg beater, gradually beat in granulated sugar until mixture stands in peaks. Mound meringue in center, in a ring, or spread over top of apple sauce mixture. Bake in slow oven 325 degrees F., 15 to 20 minutes, or until meringue is delicate brown. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

NOTE: The apple sauce mixture can be made-up the day before it is to be served, and stored in the refrigerator. The flavor is enhanced somewhat by allowing it to stand 24 hours.

P. S. Use the Yolks!

Instead of storing the yolks in the refrigerator, make a lemon sauce while your pudding is baking, and have it ready for a quick dessert. Serve on apple bread pudding (made with canned apple slices, of course!), gingerbread or rice pudding. Or crush macaroons, cover with apple sauce and top with your ready-made lemon sauce — just as simple as that!

Apple-Rum Pudding

- 2 cups canned apple sauce
- 1 cup light brown sugar
- 1 cup broken pecans
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 1 cup Jamaica rum
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon allspice
- 4 egg whites
- ½ cup granulated sugar

Chicken Curry

(Makes 4 servings)

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 medium-sized onion, chopped
- ¼ cup all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon curry powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 cup chicken stock or bouillon
- 1½ cups milk
- 2 cups diced cooked chicken
- ½ cup seedless raisins
- Cooked rice

Melt butter or margarine. Add onion and cook over low heat 5 minutes. Add flour, curry powder, salt and ginger; blend. Gradually add stock or bouillon and milk and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add chicken and raisins; mix well. Cook 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Serve chicken curry with rice. Garnish with parsley, if desired.

Sugar Plum Tarts For Christmas

Bring children's dreams of sugar plums into the holiday festivities in your home. You can with Sugar Plum Tarts — rich, flavorful custard tarts!

Decorate these glistening tarts with a dainty cloud of whipped cream.

For tender pastry shells, sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour and 1 teaspoon salt. Cut or rub in ⅔ cup shortening until mixture is crumbly. Sprinkle with 2 to 4 tablespoons cold water, mixing lightly until dough begins to stick together. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and press dough together. Divide dough in half. Roll each half ⅛ inch thick and cut into circles to fit 4-inch pie pans. Prick with fork. Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 10 minutes. Cool. Fill with custard and top with sugar plums.

For the Custard Filling, scald 2 cups milk. Comoine ¼ cup enriched flour, ¼ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon salt. Add to milk, stirring well. Add ¼ cup milk to 2 beaten eggs, stirring constantly. Return egg mixture to remaining milk. Cook over very low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to thicken (about 5 minutes). Add 1 teaspoon vanilla extract. Cool. Turn into pastry shells. Pit and cut 16 drained and chilled canned purple plums (1 pound, 14-ounce can) into halves. Arrange over custard. Combine ¼ cup sugar and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon and sprinkle over plums. Makes 8 tarts.

To add a touch of glamour to your holiday pies, use small, various-shaped cookie cutters to make clever designs out of rolled pie crust dough. Bake these holiday cutouts on a greased baking sheet and place on top of the pie just before serving.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—If Gary Crosby goes out with his brothers again on their nightclub act, he will have to return by February, because 20th Century-Fox has exercised its commitment with Gary. He has been put into "The Alaskans" with John Wayne's brother. Although there was considerable publicity when the boys closed their act in Toronto after a family squabble, I don't think anything will ever be serious enough to really break up the boys.

"The Alaskans" is a big picture. You know it would have to be when John Wayne consented to star in it after saying he wouldn't make any more pictures for a while. Writer Claude Binyon is now making some changes in the script, and Henry Hathaway will be producer-director.

That explosive prima donna of opera and romance — who else could I mean but Maria Callas?— is negotiating to star in the film version of Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow." But no Hollywood movie making for Maria—not on your life. Too far away from her heart "interest". The producer with whom Callas is talking is Captain Gunther Von Stopenhorst, former UFA producer, who will make the picture in Vienna in both English and German.

Maria, an American, speaks very good German. Her role is the same that Mae Murray, and later Jeanette MacDonald, starred in for MGM during various years. I understand MGM's rights to "The Merry Widow" have expired.

An estatically happy Betty Hutton told me that Bob Hope is just the greatest — as if we didn't know. She telephoned to ask him if he would be on her TV series in February. "I'm just available Joe", he replied, "when do you want me?" So Betty arranged with him to do an acting part when he comes back from Alaska.

"You know," she said, "our guest stars are all through the story. I have Phil Harris one week, and the next Alice Faye. Phil will play Colonel Barker, manager of Ringading Rooney."

I hadn't heard from Betty since she and Alan Livingston parted, so I was very surprised, but very glad to receive her call.

Those famous pigtails of Judy Canova's have been sold for $1000 apiece—yep, with the bows tied on them just as they were when the hair was attached to Judy's head.

Sugar Plum Tarts For Christmas

Bring children's dreams of sugar plums into the holiday festivities in your home. You can with Sugar Plum Tarts — rich, flavorful custard tarts!

Decorate these glistening tarts with a dainty cloud of whipped cream.

Sprinkle with 2 to 4 tablespoons cold water, mixing lightly until dough begins to stick together. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and press dough together. Divide dough in half. Roll each half ⅛ inch thick and cut into circles to fit 4-inch pie pans. Prick with fork. Bake in very hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 10 minutes. Cool. Fill with custard and top with sugar plums.

For the Custard Filling, scald 2 cups milk. Combine ¼ cup enriched flour, ¼ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon salt. Add to milk, stirring well. Add ¼ cup milk to 2 beaten eggs, stirring constantly. Two 'Go-Togethers' For Holiday Entertaining

To add a bit of variety and to spice up your entertaining during the holidays, serve Honey-Almond Punch, a refreshing milk drink flavored with honey and almond topped off with creamy vanilla ice cream.

The perfect accompaniment with Honey Almond Punch are Old Fashioned Butter Cookies — made either as a rolled cookie or a raisin-date filled cookie. Nothing can top the good old-fashioned butter flavor that makes these cookies truly melt-in-your mouth.

Honey Almond Punch

1 quart milk
½ cup strained honey
Dash salt
½ teaspoon almond extract
1 quart vanilla ice cream
Grated nutmeg

Combine milk, honey, salt and almond extract, beating to blend well. Spoon ice cream into chilled punch bowl; pour punch over ice cream. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Makes 7½ cups or 15 half-cup servings.

Old Fashioned Butter Cookies

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs, well beaten
½ teaspoon salt
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Cream butter; add sugar and vanilla and continue creaming until light. Beat eggs and add to butter mixture. Blend well. Sift flour, measure; sift with salt and add to dough, using more flour if necessary to make stiff dough. Chill 20 to 30 minutes. Roll out to ¼ inch thickness. Cut with cookie cutter and bake on lightly greased cookie sheet in hot oven, 400°, about ten minutes. Cookies may be sprinkled with sugar before baking. Remove from pans to cake racks to cool. Makes 5-6 dozen cookies.

Filled Cookies — Roll dough to ⅛ inch thickness and cut with scalloped cookie cutter. Place cookies on cookie sheet; place in center of each a heaping teaspoon of filling. Cover with cookies of equal size with scallop edge. Centers may be removed with small scalloped cutter. Bake in hot oven, 400-425°, 15 minutes. Remove from pans to cake rack.

Date And Raisin Filling

½ cup raisins
1 cup dates
½ cup water
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon

Put raisins and dates through grinder or cut fine. Add lemon rind and juice and water and cook until thick. Cool. Makes filling for 4 dozen cookies of 3-inch diameter.

Reports by doctors and nutritionists indicate that pork can be featured in the reducing diet. Pork contains moderate amounts of fat and is high in protein as well as other nutrients, particularly thiamine.

Frozen Peas Brighten Casserole

This hearty, meatless casserole bubbles with cheese and potato goodness — and gets its gay color the low-cost way with pretty, frozen green peas. Bureau of Labor Statistics show that the price of frozen peas has gone down while food prices generally have risen.

Frozen Peas, Potatoes and Cheese Casserole

3 cups potatoes, pared and diced
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup water
1½ cups white sauce made of:
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cup milk
1 cup grated American cheese (about ¼ pound)
1 10-ounce package frozen green peas
½ cup corn flakes, crushed

Put potatoes, salt and water in sauce pan, cover and heat to a boil; reduce heat and simmer while making white sauce. Add grated cheese to white sauce and stir, over low heat, until cheese is melted. Butter a 1½-quart casserole and in it arrange a layer each of potatoes, frozen peas, and cheese sauce. Defrost peas at room temperature just enough to separate with a fork. Repeat until all is used, having cheese sauce on top. Sprinkle corn flakes over all and bake, covered, at 375° F. for 30 minutes; remove cover and bake 15 minutes longer.

Yield: 4 servings.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A wider world is soon won by Miss Teen who has a winning manner with her parents!

Practice Charm On The Home Ground

You wouldn't be the girl with the future that you are — if you didn't dream in your teens of how poised and grown-up-charming you'll be someday. Let's talk about a way to speed the coming of the great day. I suggest that an able assist can come from practicing charm with your parents.

No — I won't encourage new ways to beguile your parents into letting you have your own way. What I have in mind is your manner toward two nice people who want most in the world to make you happy. Won't you really be a nicer person if they find you nicer to live with? Are there better signs of growing up than showing more consideration for them, respecting their tastes and privacy, stopping demands for more than your share?

And they'll be so proud of you if you're always on your best lady-like behavior with their friends and in public. It makes you squirm inside when adults say, "My, how you've grown!" But everybody's impressed with a dignified answer, even something as simple as, "Yes, it's been two years since we've seen each other, hasn't it?" Everyone notices how you greet visitors and remain standing until both your mother and other women sit down, how you converse as long as your company is wanted without looking for a quick opening to get away.

Your poise is definitely showing when you let the grown-ups talk about you without making corrections or showing discomfort. And when you serve them appropriate refreshment nicely, without being asked.

So many little things are big things, really — always introducing others to your mother instead of the other way around, remembering to call them Mother and Father or Dad instead of Mom and Pop before people, waiting in a restaurant for your father to ask first for your mother's order, then yours, treating your father like an escort when you go places together. No one appreciates your charm and grace more than those who know and love you best, and habits with them carry on so easily to ever widening circles.

Mushroom Turkey Sandwich

6 tablespoons turkey drippings, butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
2½ cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon mace
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
2 tablespoons salted, slivered almonds
¼ cup sliced stuffed olives
8 slices turkey, heated
8 slices enriched toast

Heat 4 tablespoons drippings in saucepan. Stir in flour. Add milk gradually and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add salt and mace. Saute mushrooms and almonds in remaining two tablespoons of drippings. Add mushrooms, almonds and olives to sauce and heat another minute. Place a turkey slice on each slice of toast and top with ⅓ cup sauce. Serve immediately.

Yield: 8 servings.

A Merry Christmas Table

Casual entertainment seems to be the order of things during the Christmas season, with friends likely to drop by unexpectedly to extend holiday greetings in person. Planning a few details ahead of time helps avoid last minute confusion—and lets the hostess enjoy her own holiday hospitality too!

A fruit-filled punch makes a colorful keynote to a bright table. Place your punch bowl on a green or red cloth, adding extra harmony to the table with novelty decorations such as a grouping of small hand-carved wooden angels surrounded by bits of holly. Little Santa Claus figures or multi-colored tree ornaments can be used for the same gay effect. A large plate of decorated doughnuts makes a tasty, easily replenished accompaniment.

Heres a new punch, easy to prepare and so delectable that you might want to double up on the first five ingredients and keep half chilled separately, so that you can make a whole new bowlful in seconds.

Four-Fruit Punch

1 cup halved frozen strawberries
1 cup canned pineapple chunks
1 cup sliced bananas
2 lemons, thinly sliced
3 cups strong cold tea
3 28-oz. bottles ginger ale

Arrange fruit in bottom of punch bowl; cover with cold tea. Chill for about 1 hour. Fill bowl with ice cold ginger ale. Makes about 30 punch cup servings.

Here are three quick time savers in preparing ground beef. If ground beef patties are to be honored at the evening dinner, simply roll the ground beef on a flat surface to the thickness desired. Cut into rounds with a large cooky cutter . . . presto, patties. To prepare individual meat loaves, place ground beef mixture in muffin pans. To lessen the time required in cooking a meat loaf, place the mixture in a shallow 9-inch square baking pan instead of the regular 5 x 9-inch loaf pan.

Today only 700 acres in mid-Atlantic Bermuda are under cultivation, or less than one-third of the land farmed there in 1900.

Curried Turkey Casserole

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup sliced onions
1 (No. 2) can pineapple
1¼ cups turkey or chicken broth or bouillon
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon curry powder
½ cup chopped green pepper
3 cups (½-inch) toasted bread cubes
1½ cups cooked chopped turkey or chicken
¼ cup slivered almonds

Melt butter in a (10-inch) skillet and simmer onions until they are transparent. Drain pineapple tidbits and add chicken broth to pineapple liquid to make two cups. Dissolve cornstarch, salt and curry powder in liquid. Add liquid and green pepper to onions in skillet. Cook until sauce thickens, stirring constantly. Arrange layers of bread cubes, turkey, pineapple and almonds in a greased (1½ quart) casserole and cover with half of the sauce. Repeat layers, ending with bread cubes and pour other half of sauce over top. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for thirty minutes.

Yield: 8 servings.

Turkey Croquettes

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup turkey or chicken broth or bouillon
1 cup cooked, chopped turkey
½ cup drained, chopped water chestnuts
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
¾ cup leftover seasoned bread stuffing mix
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon gniger
1 egg, slightly-beaten
1 cup fine, dry bread crumbs

Melt butter over low heat in a (1 quart) saucepan. Blend in flour. Gradually add turkey broth, stirring constantly. Continue cooking and stirring until mixture is thickened. Add turkey, water chestnuts, parsley, stuffing, salt and half the ginger. Divide into 8 portions, using ¼ cup of mixture for each croquette. Shape portions into croquettes. Chill in refrigerator for an hour or more. Combine remaining gniger with dry bread crumbs. Roll croquettes in bread crumb mixture, then in beaten egg, and again in dry bread crumbs. Fry in deep, hot fat (375°F.) until nicely browned, or about three to four minutes.

Yield: 4 servings of 2 croquettes each.

The first wallpaper manufacturing factory in the United States was established in Albany, N. Y.

Have you ever thought of making your own onion soup? It can be done with relative ease. Just saute 3 medium sized onions, which have been sliced, in 2 tablespoons of butter or margarine for about 15 minutes. Add 1 quart of meat stock and cook slowly for 30 minutes. Now pour the soup and onions into a 1½-quart casserole. Cover the top with slices of toast. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Then bake in a hot oven (400° F.) for 15 minutes.

For more accurate measure of flour, sift the flour before measuring. Then, gently spoon the flour into an individual measuring cup until cup is full. Level off with edge, not flat surface, of a knife or spatula, being careful not to pack the flour down.

Large Turnout Of Voters Expected

By BILL BARRETT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's 1960 election has taken an unusual twist which can serve to provide more interest and provide a larger turnout of voters than might otherwise be expected.

For the first time in several years there will be at least three statewide offices in which incumbents will not be seeking re-election. Because incumbents, especially in the Democratic party, have been tough to unseat in the past, the situation provides a new spice for the voter who likes his political campaigns gingered up.

State Treasurer Orel J. Skeen and Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron have aspirations of becoming the next governor of West Virginia and will step out of their present jobs leaving the door open for what likely will be a roomful of candidates in each instance seeking to sit full-time at their respective desks.

Have Advantage

In all other instances where state-wide offices are at stake, with one exception, incumbents are to be reckoned with by voters who seek the office. And in recent years, during Democratic control of the statehouse, there is practically no history of an incumbent being deposed.

The lone exception to incumbents seeking re-election is the governor. Under a provision of West Virginia's constitution, a governor cannot succeed himself. Besides a governor, attorney general and treasurer, West Virginia's will elect an auditor, agricultural commissioner, secretary of state, and two supreme court judges next year.

Most of the activity in the primary, and this has been true down through recent history, is among Democrats. They will outnumber by 2-to-1 in many cases the number of Republicans seeking nomination for any state office.

Four Democrats have announced for the gubernatorial nomination and a fifth is expected to come out soon. Barron, State Chairman Hulett Smith and House Speaker Harry R. Pauley have filed. Skeen says he probably will file after the first of the year and by then Senate President Ralph Bean is expected to be in the race.

Auditor Edgar B. Sims, who has served longer in an elective state office then any other man, will try for a seventh term. He'll have opposition. Former Nicholas County Sheriff L. B. Boley also has filed.

Will Run Again

Declarer overcame what appeared to be an insurmountable obstacle in landing his slam contract today.

The bidding was accurate. After North raised his partner's one heart response, the latter sensed slam possibilities and tested with a forcing bid of three diamonds. North cooperated by showing his king with a raise to four diamonds. South was now in position to contract for slam directly, but he decided to check for aces first.

Against the final contract of six hearts, West led the king of spades and East asked for a continuation of the suit in the most emphatic manner available, by playing the ten. East realized that a force on declarer would reduce him to only four trumps, while East held five.

West dutifully continued with the ace of spades and South ruffed. He tested trumps with the ace and when West showed out he appeared to have a dead soldier on his hands, for the loss of a trump trick seemed inevitable.

After a bit of reflection, however, declarer realized that if East's eight cards in the plain suits were favorably divided there was a chance to bring in 12 tricks. He played a diamond to the king and a diamond back to the ace, ruffing the third round with dummy's low trump. The first obstacle had been surmounted when diamonds broke. Declarer then cashed two club tricks and, when East dropped the nine, declarer saw that he could win the hand if he could determine whether East's odd card was a spade or a club.

After many mental gyrations he stroked the rabbit's foot and played the queen of spades, to which East followed. South discarded a diamond. He was then able to ruff his remaining diamond with dummy's king of trumps as East was compelled to underruff.

Spirited Races Shape Up For 1960 Election

By BILL BARRETT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's 1960 election has taken an unusual twist which can serve to provide more interest and provide a larger turnout of voters than might otherwise be expected.

For the first time in several years there will be at least three statewide offices in which incumbents will not be seeking re-election. Because incumbents, especially in the Democratic party, have been tough to unseat in the past, the situation provides a new spice for the voter who likes his political campaigns gingered up.

State Treasurer Orel J. Skeen and Atty. Gen. W. W. Barron have aspirations of becoming the next governor of West Virginia and will step out of their present jobs leaving the door open for what likely will be a roomful of candidates in each instance seeking to sit full-time at their respective desks.

Have Advantage

In all other instances where state-wide offices are at stake, with one exception, incumbents are to be reckoned with by voters who seek the office. And in recent years, during Democratic control of the statehouse, there is practically no history of an incumbent being deposed.

The lone exception to incumbents seeking re-election is the governor. Under a provision of West Virginia's constitution, a governor cannot succeed himself. Besides a governor, attorney general and treasurer, West Virginia's will elect an auditor, agricultural commissioner, secretary of state, and two supreme court judges next year.

Most of the activity in the primary, and this has been true down through recent history, is among Democrats. They will outnumber by 2-to-1 in many cases the number of Republicans seeking nomination for any state office.

Four Democrats have announced for the gubernatorial nomination and a fifth is expected to come out soon. Barron, State Chairman Hulett Smith and House Speaker Harry R. Pauley have filed. Skeen says he probably will file after the first of the year and by then Senate President Ralph Bean is expected to be in the race.

Auditor Edgar B. Sims, who has served longer in an elective state office then any other man, will try for a seventh term. He'll have opposition. Former Nicholas County Sheriff L. B. Boley also has filed.

Will Run Again

Agricultural Commissioner John T. Johnson said as long as two years ago he would seek re-election and Joe F. Burdett, serving an unexpired term as secretary of state is expected to bid for a full four-year-term.

State Senator Jack Nuckols of Beckley wasted little time in bidding for Skeen's desk. He filed a candidacy certificate within 24 hours after Skeen formally made known his gubernatorial aspirations.

Two have announced for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. They are Wade H. Bronson of Williamson and C. Donald Robinson of Clarksburg, a House of Delegates member.

The only Republican to file for statewide office so far is Elmer H. Dodson, Charleston city solicitor, who is seeking nomination for attorney general.

Declarer overcame what appeared to be an insurmountable obstacle in landing his slam contract today.

The bidding was accurate. After North raised his partner's one heart response, the latter sensed slam possibilities and tested with a forcing bid of three diamonds. North cooperated by showing his king with a raise to four diamonds. South was now in position to contract for slam directly, but he decided to check for aces first.

Against the final contract of six hearts, West led the king of spades and East asked for a continuation of the suit in the most emphatic manner available, by playing the ten. East realized that a force on declarer would reduce him to only four trumps, while East held five.

West dutifully continued with the ace of spades and South ruffed. He tested trumps with the ace and when West showed out he appeared to have a dead soldier on his hands, for the loss of a trump trick seemed inevitable.

After a bit of reflection, however, declarer realized that if East's eight cards in the plain suits were favorably divided there was a chance to bring in 12 tricks. He played a diamond to the king and a diamond back to the ace, ruffing the third round with dummy's low trump. The first obstacle had been surmounted when diamonds broke. Declarer then cashed two club tricks and, when East dropped the nine, declarer saw that he could win the hand if he could determine whether East's odd card was a spade or a club.

After many mental gyrations he stroked the rabbit's foot and played the queen of spades, to which East followed. South discarded a diamond. He was then able to ruff his remaining diamond with dummy's king of trumps as East was compelled to underruff.

Pitt Cagers Say Dentist Attempted To Bribe Them

Dr. E. H. Sebastian Offered 'Everything' If They Fixed Games

By DAVID A. LEHERR

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A former University of Pittsburgh dental instructor was arrested Monday on a charge of attempting to bribe two Pitt basketball players to shave points.

John Fridley, 20, of Sharon, Pa., and Dick Falenski, 21, of Latrobe, Pa. — junior hoopsters at Pitt—brought the charges against Dr. Edward H. Sebastian, a dentist from suburban McKees Rocks.

The pair contends Dr. Sebastian offered to get them scholarships to Pitt's dental school and to pay them 50 per cent of bet winnings if they would keep Pitt's victory margin within bet-winning range.

Denies Charges

Dr. Sebastian denied the charges, stating: "Everything we discussed, he (Fridley) started."

But Fridley claimed Dr. Sebastian "offered us the world—anything that came to his mind he said he'd get us—cars at cost and everything."

"Our grades aren't up to snuff, but he said he'd fix everything—get us senatorial scholarships and guarantee we got into dental school," said Falenski, who is averaging 17 points a game for the Panthers.

Both said they refused to have anything to do with Sebastian's offer, though they admitted having a keen desire to enter dental school.

Fridley, Pitt's top rebounder, told detectives he met with Dr. Sebastian separately Dec. 3 and Dec. 9. Falenski joined Fridley to meet Dr. Sebastian Dec. 10. That's when the dentist made his pitch, according to Fridley.

Falenski said Dr. Sebastian told them to pick any game they wished to shave points.

Got Second Offer

"If we had, then afterward we'd have been hooked, and he could have named which games to fix," said Falenski. He added:

"After the second bribe offer, we called our fathers. I was scared. My father told us to call Frank Carver (Pitt athletic director). Mr. Carver took care of everything from then on."

Pitt officials in turn passed the story on to Dist. Atty. Edward Boyle of Allegheny County.

Harvard Assistant To Succeed Rogers

The Rev. John J. Klekotka, Villanova president, made the announcement after Joe Rogers, who took over the Wildcat helm in mid-season, rejected an offer to keep the job. Villanova had one of its worst seasons in history, winning only one in 10 games.

Rogers took over in October after Athletic Director Frank Regan resigned as coach. The team then had lost four straight.

Pitt Cagers Say Dentist Attempted To Bribe Them

Dr. E. H. Sebastian Offered 'Everything' If They Fixed Games

By DAVID A. LEHERR

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A former University of Pittsburgh dental instructor was arrested Monday on a charge of attempting to bribe two Pitt basketball players to shave points.

John Fridley, 20, of Sharon, Pa., and Dick Falenski, 21, of Latrobe, Pa. — junior hoopsters at Pitt—brought the charges against Dr. Edward H. Sebastian, a dentist from suburban McKees Rocks.

The pair contends Dr. Sebastian offered to get them scholarships to Pitt's dental school and to pay them 50 per cent of bet winnings if they would keep Pitt's victory margin within bet-winning range.

Denies Charges

Dr. Sebastian denied the charges, stating: "Everything we discussed, he (Fridley) started."

But Fridley claimed Dr. Sebastian "offered us the world—anything that came to his mind he said he'd get us—cars at cost and everything."

"Our grades aren't up to snuff, but he said he'd fix everything—get us senatorial scholarships and guarantee we got into dental school," said Falenski, who is averaging 17 points a game for the Panthers.

Both said they refused to have anything to do with Sebastian's offer, though they admitted having a keen desire to enter dental school.

Fridley, Pitt's top rebounder, told detectives he met with Dr. Sebastian separately Dec. 3 and Dec. 9. Falenski joined Fridley to meet Dr. Sebastian Dec. 10. That's when the dentist made his pitch, according to Fridley.

Falenski said Dr. Sebastian told them to pick any game they wished to shave points.

Got Second Offer

"If we had, then afterward we'd have been hooked, and he could have named which games to fix," said Falenski. He added:

"After the second bribe offer, we called our fathers. I was scared. My father told us to call Frank Carver (Pitt athletic director). Mr. Carver took care of everything from then on."

Pitt officials in turn passed the story on to Dist. Atty. Edward Boyle of Allegheny County.

1959 Banner Year For Bank Robbers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bank robbers had a banner year in 1959, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported Sunday.

In a yearend report to Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, Hoover said final figures for the year will show an increase of about 10 per cent above the record of 704 established in 1958.

Pascual Honored

HAVANA (AP)—Pitcher Camilo Pascual of the Washington Senators Monday was named Cuba's outstanding athlete of 1959.

Harvard Assistant To Succeed Rogers

The Rev. John J. Klekotka, Villanova president, made the announcement after Joe Rogers, who took over the Wildcat helm in mid-season, rejected an offer to keep the job. Villanova had one of its worst seasons in history, winning only one in 10 games.

Pirates Trade Ronnie Kline

Get Gino Cimoli, Cheney From Cards

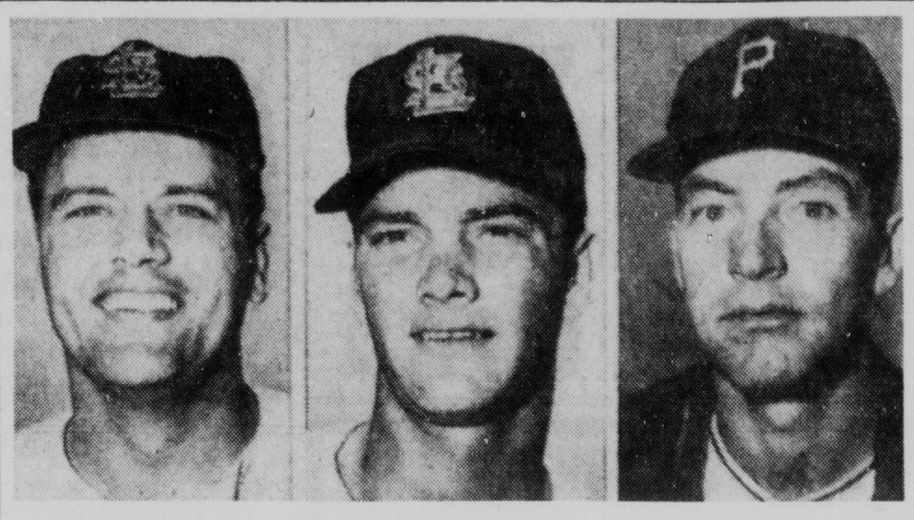
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates Monday traded righthander Ronnie Kline to the St. Louis Cardinals for outfielder Gino Cimoli and pitcher Tom Cheney.

General Manager Joe L. Brown completed the deal Monday by telephone from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., where he is vacationing.

Kline, 27, was with the Pirates since 1952 with the exception of two years spent in military service. His record last season was 11-13 with a 4.26 ERA.

Cimoli, 30, hit 279 in 143 games last season with the Cards. He broke in with the then-Brooklyn Dodgers in 1956 and moved to the Redbirds in a swap for Wally Moon. His best year was with the Dodgers in 1957, when he hit .293.

Cheney, a 25-year-old righthander, appeared briefly with St. Louis at the tag end of last season and in 1957. He posted a 0-1 record in 11 games with the Cards and was 5-6 with Omaha of the American Association last season.



BUCCOS GET TWO FOR ONE—The Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday traded righthanded pitcher Ronnie Kline, right, to St. Louis for outfielder Gino Cimoli, left, and Tom Cheney, also a righthanded pitcher. A Pirate spokesman said no money was involved. Kline won 11, lost 13 this year. Cimoli hit .279 in 143 games. He bats and throws righthanded. Cheney pitched most of the 1959 season at Omaha, Neb., where he had a 5-6 mark. (AP Photofax)

6,200 Giants-Colts Tickets Go In Hurry

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—More than 3,000 football fans, many of whom stood in line all night in sub-freezing temperature, Monday snapped up 6,200 general admission tickets to the Baltimore Colts-New York Giants Dec. 27 championship game with speed that would flatter a halfback.

The sellout for the National Football League title game was completed one hour and 10 minutes after the Memorial Stadium windows opened at 9 a.m. Latecomers, almost 1,000 strong, were turned away with nothing but blue lips to show for their shivering wait.

Gay Gilland, Colt ticket manager, said another 800 tickets would go on sale Saturday for persons under 20 years of age. Season ticket holders claimed 39,939 of memorial stadium's 57,557 seats last week.

Pirates Trade Ronnie Kline

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates Monday traded righthander Ronnie Kline to the St. Louis Cardinals for outfielder Gino Cimoli and pitcher Tom Cheney.

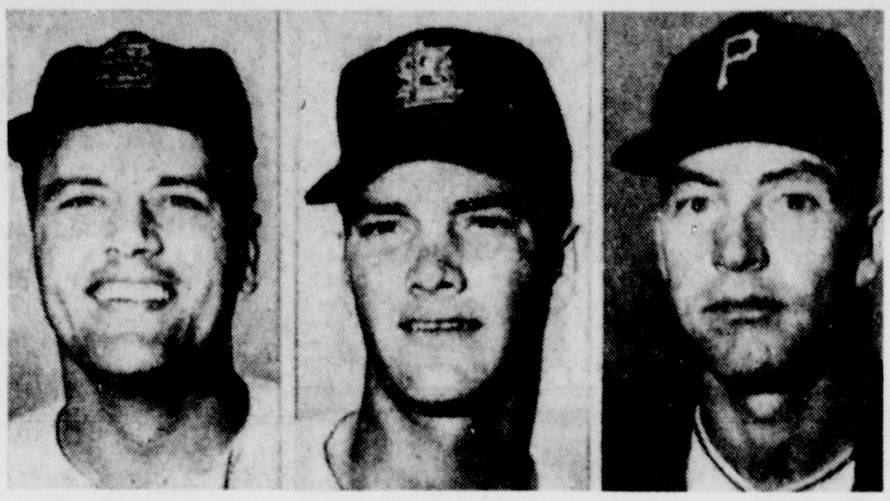
Kline, 27, was with the Pirates since 1952 with the exception of two years spent in military service. His record last season was 11-13 with a 4.26 ERA.

Cimoli, 30, hit 279 in 143 games last season with the Cards. He broke in with the then-Brooklyn Dodgers in 1956 and moved to the Redbirds in a swap for Wally Moon. His best year was with the Dodgers in 1957, when he hit .293.

Cheney, a 25-year-old righthander, appeared briefly with St. Louis at the tag end of last season and in 1957. He posted a 0-1 record in 11 games with the Cards and was 5-6 with Omaha of the American Association last season.



BUCCOS GET TWO FOR ONE—The Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday traded righthanded pitcher Ronnie Kline, right, to St. Louis for outfielder Gino Cimoli, left, and Tom Cheney, also a righthanded pitcher. A Pirate spokesman said no money was involved. Kline won 11, lost 13 this year. Cimoli hit .279 in 143 games. He bats and throws righthanded. Cheney pitched most of the 1959 season at Omaha, Neb., where he had a 5-6 mark. (AP Photofax)

6,200 Giants-Colts Tickets Go In Hurry

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—More than 3,000 football fans, many of whom stood in line all night in sub-freezing temperature, Monday snapped up 6,200 general admission tickets to the Baltimore Colts-New York Giants Dec. 27 championship game with speed that would flatter a halfback.

The sellout for the National Football League title game was completed one hour and 10 minutes after the Memorial Stadium windows opened at 9 a.m. Latecomers, almost 1,000 strong, were turned away with nothing but blue lips to show for their shivering wait.

Gay Gilland, Colt ticket manager, said another 800 tickets would go on sale Saturday for persons under 20 years of age. Season ticket holders claimed 39,939 of memorial stadium's 57,557 seats last week.

WHAT IS A BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION?

It is composed of a group of people who have pooled their savings to lend on first mortgages. Each saver is a part owner in the business in proportion to the amount of his savings and receives dividends from the net profits of the business in the same proportion.

A building and loan association is not a bank. A depositor in a bank is not a part owner of the bank but is a creditor of the bank and receives interest the bank promises to pay. The two types of institutions are different and should not be confused.

This Association loans all of its funds on first mortgages on homes in this community—nothing else. You, as an individual, could do the same thing if you wish to employ all the professional and clerical help you would need. We are prepared to offer all these services to you more economically, more efficiently and more safely than a lone mortgage investor could do. We have never lost a dollar on any loan.

We have paid 4% dividends continuously for the last 20 years and have reserves of 11% of our total savings shares.

WHAT IS A BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION?
It is composed of a group of people who have pooled their savings to lend on first mortgages. Each saver is a part owner in the business in proportion to the amount of his savings and receives dividends from the net profits of the business in the same proportion.
A building and loan association is not a bank. A depositor in a bank is not a part owner of the bank but is a creditor of the bank and receives interest the bank promises to pay. The two types of institutions are different and should not be confused.
This Association loans all of its funds on first mortgages on homes in this community—nothing else. You, as an individual, could do the same thing if you wish to employ all the professional and clerical help you would need. We are prepared to offer all these services to you more economically, more efficiently and more safely than a lone mortgage investor could do. We have never lost a dollar on any loan.
We have paid 4% dividends continuously for the last 20 years and have reserves of 11% of our total savings shares.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved father, Thorn E. Poole, who died Dec. 22, 1958.
His helping hand was always first
To render any aid he could:
His voice was always raised in praise,
His words were wise and good.
Dear father, since you've gone away,
The ones you loved so true,
Try hard to carry on the way
We know you'd want us to.
Sadly missed by
DAUGHTERS AND SONS

In loving memory of our dear Mother who passed away Dec. 22, 1956.
The depths of sorrow we can not tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well.
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep,
Sadly missed by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morgan.

In loving memory of my beloved husband, Thornton E. Poole, who died Dec. 22, 1958.
The vow we took when you and I
Were young, and life was new,
Unites us still, though you have passed,
Your mortal journey through.
Dear husband, across the Valley, we
Commune through all Eternity.
His loving wife,
MARGARET ANN POOLE

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved father, Thorn E. Poole, who died Dec. 22, 1958.
His helping hand was always first
To render any aid he could:
His voice was always raised in praise.
His words were wise and good.
Dear father, since you've gone away,
The ones you loved so true,
Try hard to carry on the way
We know you'd want us to.
Sadly missed by
DAUGHTERS AND SONS

In loving memory of our dear Mother who passed away Dec. 22, 1956.
The depths of sorrow we can not tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well.
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.
Sadly missed by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morgan.

In loving memory of my beloved husband, Thornton E. Poole, who died Dec. 22, 1958.
The vow we took when you and I
Were young, and life was new,
Unites us still, though you have passed,
Your mortal journey through.
Dear husband, across the Valley, we
Commune through all Eternity.
His loving wife,
MARGARET ANN POOLE

Sunday School Class Has Christmas Party

KEYSER — Mrs. Bane's Sunday School Class of Grace Methodist Church met recently at the home of Mrs. Floyd Boor. Mrs. Harry Taylor conducted the singing of carols and Miss Beverly Boor had a piano solo of Christmas selections.

Jingle gifts were exchanged by Mrs. Eurice Broome, Mrs. Nola Clark, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Rebecca Homan, Mrs. Ida Prysock, Mrs. Dorothy Woodard, Mrs. Lottie Thayer, Mrs. Georgie Arnold, Mrs. Alice Arnold, Mrs. Rebecca Kelley, Miss Alma Peters, Mrs. Margaret Pifer, Mrs. Dale Wilt.

Also Mrs. Olive Watkins, Mrs. Lucile Peters, Mrs. Julia Oates, Mrs. Orgie Hardy, Mrs. Frances Davis, Mrs. Lucile Bane, Mrs. Nelsie Jackson, Miss Myda Nee, Mrs. Alma Wilson and Mrs. Jessie Matlick.

Christmas decorations were used. Hostesses were Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Woodard, Mrs. Boor and Mrs. Matlick.

Keyser Sorority Chapters Meet

KEYSER — The Iota Pi and Alpha Alpha Theta Chapters of Tau Phi Lamba held their Christmas party recently at the home of Delores Fitzgerald. The party was in charge of the pledges.

Games were played and Christmas carols were sung by the members.

Christmas Quiz

Do You Know Why We Have

1. Candles on a Christmas Tree? Christmas Waits? Kissing under the mistletoe?

2. What was the nationality of Santa Claus? Good King Wenceslas? Harlequin and Columbine?

3. In what country is it a Christmas custom to hang evergreen wreaths over the front door? Spread hay under the tablecloth at diner? Have a traditional round yeast cake, filled with nuts, rasins and spices?

4. What is the origin of the Yule log? Boar's head? Turkey and sausage?

5. Who composed Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy? Christmas Concerto? Christmas Oratorio? Toy Symphony?

1. This is a relic of an earlier festival than Christmas, when round about the shortest day of the year, lights or bonfires were kindled to invoke the sun's return.

Continuance of the tradition of singing a Christmas hymn or carol by wandering minstrels who "waited" the pleasure of the lord of the manor. Later watchmen who called the time and weather, took on the job and when policemen were introduced in 1820, it fell to private individuals to carry on.

Mistletoe was sacred to the Druids and various primitive peoples; kissing under mistletoe, a survival of an idolatrous custom, has nothing to do with Christmas.

2. Russian. He is a corruption of St. Nicholas. Early Dutch settlers in American called him San Nicholas and celebrated his feast Dec. 6. Americans turned him into Santa Claus and attached him to Christmas.

Wenceslas was king of Bohemia (now Czechoslovakia).

Harlequin and Columbine were Italian.

3. USA. Poland. Yugoslavia.

4. Custom borrowed from primitive tribes, who held a fire festival at mid-winter and burnt logs of wood.

5. Peter Ilyitch Tschaikowsky. Archangelo Corelli. Johann Sebastian Bach. Franz Joseph Haydn.

Sunday School Class Has Christmas Party

KEYSER — Mrs. Bane's Sunday School Class of Grace Methodist Church met recently at the home of Mrs. Floyd Boor. Mrs. Harry Taylor conducted the singing of carols and Miss Beverly Boor had a piano solo of Christmas selections.

Jingle gifts were exchanged by Mrs. Eurice Broome, Mrs. Nola Clark, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Rebecca Homan, Mrs. Ida Prysock, Mrs. Dorothy Woodard, Mrs. Lottie Thayer, Mrs. Georgie Arnold, Mrs. Alice Arnold, Mrs. Rebecca Kelley, Miss Alma Peters, Mrs. Margaret Pifer, Mrs. Dale Wilt.

Also Mrs. Olive Watkins, Mrs. Lucie Peters, Mrs. Julia Oates, Mrs. Orgie Hardy, Mrs. Frances Davis, Mrs. Lucile Bane, Mrs. Nelsie Jackson, Miss Myda Nee, Mrs. Alma Wilson and Mrs. Jessie Matlick.

Christmas decorations were used. Hostesses were Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Woodard, Mrs. Boor and Mrs. Matlick.

Keyser Sorority Chapters Meet

KEYSER — The Iota Pi and Alpha Alpha Theta Chapters of Tau Phi Lamba held their Christmas party recently at the home of Delores Fitzgerald. The party was in charge of the pledges.

Games were played and Christmas carols were sung by the members.

Refreshments were served and jingle gifts were exchanged. Gifts and food were received for the Christmas basket which is being distributed by the sorority. The next business meeting will be held at the home of Alice Dixon, Center Street, on January 13.

Christmas Quiz

Do You Know Why We Have

1. Candles on a Christmas Tree? Christmas Waits? Kissing under the mistletoe?

2. What was the nationality of Santa Claus? Good King Wenceslas? Harlequin and Columbine?

3. In what country is it a Christmas custom to hang evergreen wreaths over the front door? Spread hay under the tablecloth at diner? Have a traditional round yeast cake, filled with nuts, rasins and spices?

4. What is the origin of the Yule log? Boar's head? Turkey and sausage?

5. Who composed Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy? Christmas Concerto? Christmas Oratorio? Toy Symphony?

1. This is a relic of an earlier festival than Christmas, when round about the shortest day of the year, lights or bonfires were kindled to invoke the sun's return.

Continuance of the tradition of singing a Christmas hymn or carol by wandering minstrels who "waited" the pleasure of the lord of the manor. Later watchmen who called the time and weather, took on the job and when policemen were introduced in 1820, it fell to private individuals to carry on.

Mistletoe was sacred to the Druids and various primitive peoples; kissing under mistletoe, a survival of an idolatrous custom, has nothing to do with Christmas.

2. Russian. He is a corruption of St. Nicholas. Early Dutch settlers in American called him San Nicholas and celebrated his feast Dec. 6. Americans turned him into Santa Claus and attached him to Christmas.

Wenceslas was king of Bohemia (now Czechoslovakia).

Harlequin and Columbine were Italian.

3. USA, Poland, Yugoslavia.

4. Custom borrowed from primitive tribes, who held a fire festival at mid-winter and burnt logs of wood

Another Christmas survival. The boar was the animal form of corn spirit and was sacrificed and decorated with evergreen garlands.

Turkey is merely English substitute for boars head, and sausage (chains) represent garlands surrounding it.

5. Peter Ilyitch Tschaikowsky. Archangelo Corelli. Johann Sebastian Bach. Franz Joseph Haydn.

Industrial Stock Average Fails To Hold New High

NEW YORK (UPI) —The industrial stock average failed again Monday to hold a new high when a late sell-off all but wiped out the day's gains.

The pattern was typical of some recent sessions—a strong beginning, and a weak finish. The average poked its head above the high on several occasions last week, only to be pulled down again before the close.

There was little in the news to bolster trader sentiment. The steel picture was still far from rosy while the short interest was revealed on Friday to have suffered another decline.

Selling centered in the blue chips such as Chrysler which lost 2⅛ and Union Carbide which lost a point. Fractional declines predominant in the industrial section where earlier in the day gains ruled.

The electronics were strong. Gains here ranged to 7½ in Texas Instruments, more than 2 in Motorola and 1⅜ in American Cable & Radio. The late sell-off hit some in this section, but in most instances the pressure merely narrowed earlier gains. Zenith fell 1¾ to 111¼.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures prices were irregular as the December contracts expired Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Last minute trading in the nearby deliveries brought erratic price patterns. December wheat rose more than a cent, while December rye fell as much as 3 cents.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to up 1¼; corn off ⅜ to 1½; oats unchanged to up ⅝; rye off 1¾ to 3; and soybeans off ⅞ to 1⅜.

Wheat was irregular. Mills and an export house were buyers. Commission houses sold. Commercial interests were not active.

Corn prices were weak as local selling developed almost immediately after the opening bell. Commercial houses bought July, and a large elevator sold May. Receipts were light. Some December was sold against purchases of March, which was also bought against sales of May.

Export subsidies were granted on 700,000 bushels of corn.

Oats opened firm, declined and closed mixed. Much of the trade took the form of evening up transactions. Local interests sold May.

Rye prices were down as much as 3 cents on liquidation and evening up. Winnipeg prices were also lower.

Soybean prices were heavy on commission selling. Local traders pressed the market. Lower oil and meal prices added more pressure, and last week's bearish crop report continued to be a factor.

Denmark was said to have bought small parcels of soybeans. A large export business in wheat was reported pending, but no sales were announced.

Industrial Stock Average Fails To Hold New High

NEW YORK (UPI) —The industrial stock average failed again Monday to hold a new high when a late sell-off all but wiped out the day's gains.

The market found enough support in the early trading to put the industrial section above the all-time high — 678.10 — touched on Aug. 3. However, the chartists don't count a new high unless it comes at the close.

The pattern was typical of some recent sessions—a strong beginning, and a weak finish. The average poked its head above the high on several occasions last week, only to be pulled down again before the close.

There was little in the news to bolster trader sentiment. The steel picture was still far from rosy while the short interest was revealed on Friday to have suffered another decline.

Selling centered in the blue chips such as Chrysler which lost 2⅛ and Union Carbide which lost a point. Fractional declines predominant in the industrial section where earlier in the day gains ruled.

The electronics were strong. Gains here ranged to 7½ in Texas Instruments, more than 2 in Motorola and 1⅜ in American Cable & Radio. The late sell-off hit some in this section, but in most instances the pressure merely narrowed earlier gains. Zenith fell 1¾ to 111¼.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures prices were irregular as the December contracts expired Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Last minute trading in the nearby deliveries brought erratic price patterns. December wheat rose more than a cent, while December rye fell as much as 3 cents.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to up 1¼; corn off ⅜ to 1⅛; oats unchanged to up ⅝; rye off 1¾ to 3; and soybeans off ⅞ to 1⅜.

Wheat was irregular. Mills and an export house were buyers. Commission houses sold. Commercial interests were not active.

Corn prices were weak as local selling developed almost immediately after the opening bell. Commercial houses bought July, and a large elevator sold May. Receipts were light. Some December was sold against purchases of March, which was also bought against sales of May.

Export subsidies were granted on 700,000 bushels of corn.

Oats opened firm, declined and closed mixed. Much of the trade took the form of evening up transactions. Local interests sold May.

Rye prices were down as much as 3 cents on liquidation and evening up. Winnipeg prices were also lower.

Soybean prices were heavy on commission selling. Local traders pressed the market. Lower oil and meal prices added more pressure, and last week's bearish crop report continued to be a factor.

Denmark was said to have bought small parcels of soybeans. A large export business in wheat was reported pending, but no sales were announced.

Outside markets were mostly lower.

Three Families Routed By Fire

Lonaconing Garage, Apartments Destroyed; House Is Damaged

Fire, racing with amazing swiftness through a two-story frame and concrete block garage building, leveled the structure and badly damaged an adjoining house yesterday afternoon in Lonaconing.

The blaze apparently started in the rear of the garage near or in a furnace room and whipped through the building so swiftly that six occupants barely escaped with their lives.

Volunteer firemen said the flames were fed by gasoline, oil and paint in the garage.

The gas furnace apparently exploded, buckling the east wall of the structure and sending flames shooting out the large showroom window in front.

Children from nearby Central Elementary School had just been dismissed from their classes and many were forced to turn back to the school when the flames blocked their way.

The blaze badly burned two automobiles parked on State Route 36 in front of the garage and destroyed electric and telephone lines strung along the highway.

Power, Phones Out

The broken lines cut off both power and telephone service on the east side of the community through Midland and National. Utility crews were busy repairing the damage last night after the flames had been brought under control.

School authorities said there was no sign of the fire at 3:30 p. m. when the children were dismissed and four school buses had been loaded and had pulled away from the school. The power in the school building went off at 3:42 when the flames burned through the cables, showing the speed with which the fire sped through the garage and apartment building.

Mrs. Everett Spiker, wife of the Lonaconing automobile dealer who owned the garage; a secretary - bookkeeper, Mrs. Alice Smith; two garage mechanics, William Getson and Onas Hanekamp; and the occupants of a first floor apartment, Mrs. William Smith and her daughter, Jeanie Kay Smith, fled from the building, barely escaping with their lives and unable to save any belongings.

Owner Unaware Of Fire

Mr. Spiker, who was in Franklin at the time delivering an automobile, did not know of the fire until some time later when he heard a radio broadcast. He said last night his wife and the others were very fortunate to escape without injury, but that he and his wife had lost everything. He said he could not make an estimate of the amount of his loss, but added that it was partially insured.

Mrs. Spiker, showing the strain of the ordeal, said afterwards that she and Mrs. Alice Smith were trimming a small Christmas tree in the show window of the garage when she heard one of the mechanics exclaim, "Look, Bill, there's a fire!"

She said she ran to her upstairs apartment to get a small fire bomb extinguisher which she gave to Mr. Hanekamp to throw on the blaze. When this failed to halt the spreading flames, she ran back upstairs for another bomb just as the building seemed to explode.

Escapes From Blaze

Black, acrid smoke poured into her apartment through the air ducts and up the stairwell, choking and blinding her. She said she groped her way downstairs again, almost losing consciousness before getting out of the building.

Meanwhile, the bookkeeper telephoned the Goodwill Volunteer Fire Company and the town fire whistle sounded the alarm, moments before the flames destroyed the power and telephone lines. Mrs. Smith then picked up a book in which she was keeping records, and ran from the structure.

The two mechanics, realizing the flames were out of control also ran from the building, warning Mrs. William Smith in her downstairs apartment. Mrs. Smith's daughter, a sixth grade pupil at Central Elementary, had just entered their home when they were warned by the mechanics. Both fled as the flames broke through the front of the building.

Firemen from the Lonaconing company radioed for help, and

704 Phones Out Of Order After Blaze

Service To Be Restored Tonight

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company said last night 345 lines and 704 phones were out of commission as a result of the fire yesterday afternoon in Lonaconing, and repairmen were working around the clock to restore service in that section.

A spokesman for the phone company said the fire burned two cables which provide local service in the Lonaconing area, and a toll cable used for long distance calling.

The toll cable damage caused 80 long distance circuits to go out of service and some Cumberland service to Lonaconing, Piedmont and Westernport was impaired. Lonaconing circuits to Frostburg also were put out of service.

The phone company reported that two poles were damaged by the fire and may have to be replaced.

Repairmen began working immediately on the damaged wires, and toll service is expected to be resumed this morning. All service in the Lonaconing section is expected to be back to normal this evening.

Workmen restored service at pay stations and fire companies' telephones to handle any emergency calls.

Service in Cumberland was delayed somewhat yesterday evening due to the heavy volume of calls placed on the local central office dial equipment.

The phone company said that, because of persons calling about the fire and others calling because of the snow, there was some delay in getting a dial tone.

Mrs. Legge Succumbs At Local Hospital

Mrs. George W. Legge, 841 Braddock Road, who was executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross since May of 1956, died last night at 9:20 in Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient for six days.

A native of Jefferson County, Pa., Mrs. Legge came to Cumberland 38 years ago from Garrett County. Her husband, a local attorney, was a former mayor of Cumberland.

Mrs. Legge, a graduate of Wyoming Seminary, Kingston, Pa., had been active in civic affairs for many years. For five years she served as the first Girl Scout commissioner here after the 1928 reorganization.

During her term of service, the Girl Scouts grew from one troop to 12 with Mrs. Legge then doing all the work, with no paid assistant on her staff. She also served on the Region Three camp committee of the Girl Scouts.

She had been in charge of the Fort Hill High School cafeteria from its beginning in 1936 until she accepted her Red Cross position. This was the first organized school cafeteria established in Allegany County.

Mrs. Legge headed the woman's division of the Community Chest Drive on two separate occasions. She was the first secretary of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

While still residing in Garrett County, she was secretary of the Red Cross there. Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William Elvin, Arlington, Va., and four grandchildren.

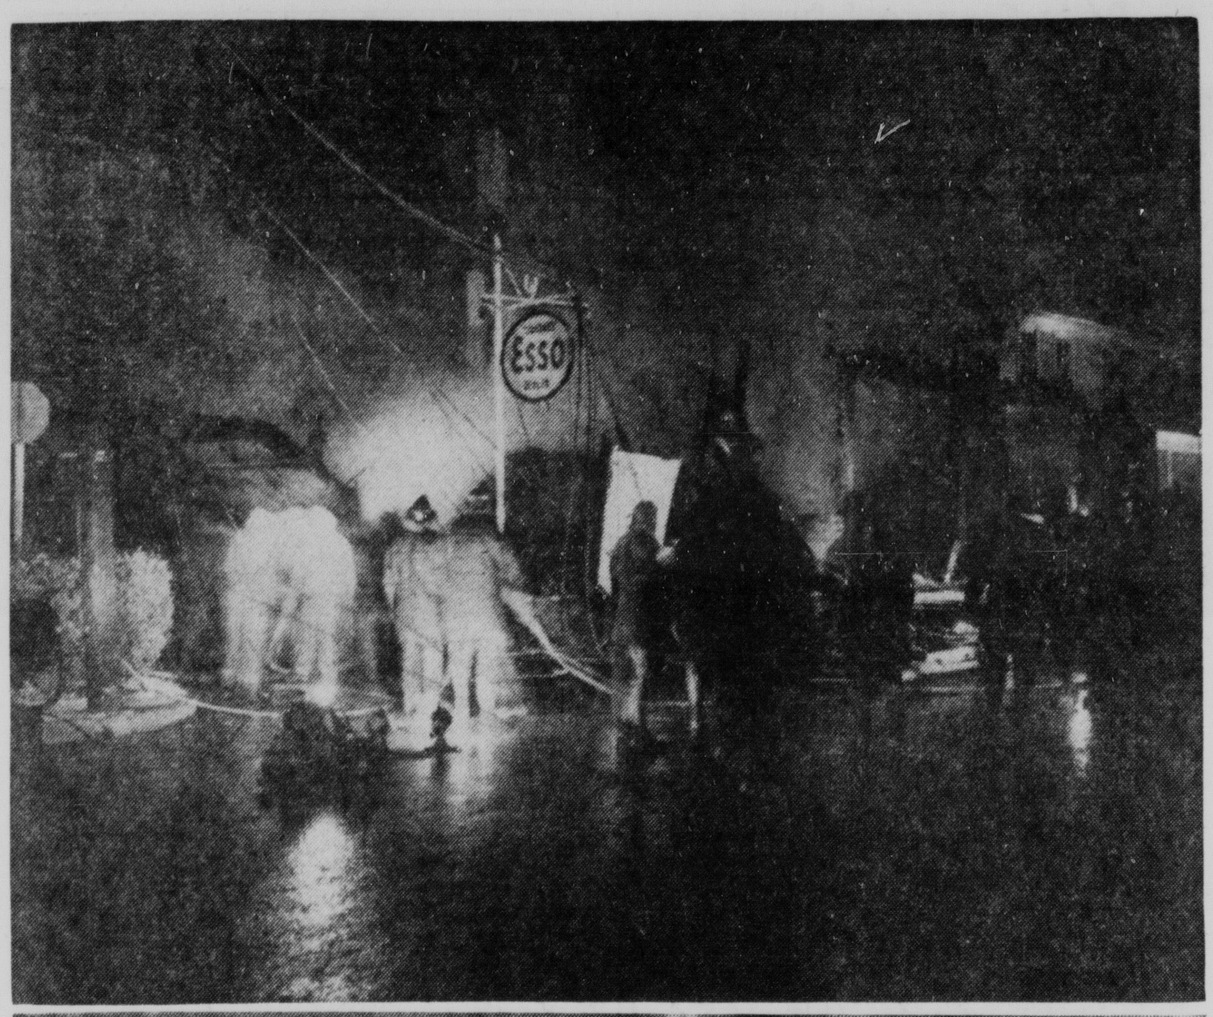
She was a member of First Presbyterian Church and the Women's Association of the church.

The body will be at the Silcox Funeral Home where friends will be received from 7 to 9 tonight. A funeral service will be conducted at First Presbyterian Church tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. The body will be taken to the Moore Funeral Home, Dubois, Pa., for a service at 2 p. m. Thursday, with burial in Beechwoods Cemetery there.

The family asked that memorials take the form of contributions to charity.

Still 'Critical'

John F. Monnett, 20, of Hyndman, Pa., who was injured in a one-car crash Sunday on Route 31 in Bedford County, was reported still in "critical" condition last night at Bedford County Memorial Hospital.



Blaze Levels Lonaconing Garage

A fire which apparently started in or near the furnace room swept with stunning speed through a garage and apartment building owned by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Spiker, Lonaconing, about 3:30 p. m. yesterday. The blaze leveled the two-story structure and badly damaged a neighbor's home, endangering pupils of nearby Central Elementary School who were passing by when the fire broke out. The top picture, a time exposure, shows firemen as they brought the blaze under control as night fell. The lower photograph surveys the damage to the buildings and an automobile parked in front of the garage. Three families who escaped the flames were left homeless. Blurs in lower photo were caused by snowflakes near camera lens.

Fire Engine Wrecked On Way To Fire

The pumper of Potomac Fire Company at Westernport yesterday afternoon was involved in an accident while en route to the fire in Lonaconing yesterday and was unable to be driven to the scene.

No one was reported injured in the truck-auto accident at Phoenix Hill, and the number one piece of equipment of the company was back in service last night.

Fire Chief Paul Michael said the pumper was being driven by Daniel Taylor. Ten other volunteers were ridng on the truck at the time.

He said the driver had rounded a curve on Phoenix Hill just beyond Franklin on Maryland Route 36 when the rear end of the truck swung around on the slippery road, hit an embankment and hit the rear end of a car operated by Mrs. Charles Liller of Barton, which was "hung up" due to the road condition.

The accident occurred about 4:15 p. m. Chief Michael commended the driver for keeping the damage to a minimum. A number of vehicles were "hung up" because of the slippery road, he said.

Missing Hunter Is Located In Kansas

ELKINS, W. Va. (UPI) — An Elkins hunter, missing since last Dec. 4, has been located in Kansas, State Police Sgt. V. C. Ware said Monday.

Asa Callison, 35, was last seen when he left his home to go deer hunting in a wooded area east of here.

Sgt. Ware declined to identify the Kansas town where Callison was located. He said when Callison was found "the case was cleared up as far as State Police are concerned."

Sgt. Ware said Callison's family had contacted him and he was reported well.

A search was started late Dec. 4 when Callison failed to return to his home as he had promised. It was continued as weather permitted.

Searchers found Callison's gun and coat in the vicinity of the Cheat River and the river was dragged, but no further clues were discovered.

Fire Forces Bus Pupils To Walk

Nearly 100 Central Elementary School children narrowly escaped injury or death when flames roared through a nearby garage and apartment building as the pupils were being dismissed from classes for the day at the Lonaconing school yesterday afternoon.

The garage and an adjoining building were destroyed by the fire, which was accompanied by an explosion which whipped the flames through the structure so swiftly that many lives were endangered.

Classes at the school were dismissed at 3:30 p.m., Miss Alice McCormick, principal of the school, said. Four bus loads had pulled away from the school, which is located about 100 feet from the burned buildings, and a line of children was moving in the direction of the garage when the fire was discovered.

The children and several of the buses pass directly in front of the garage which is located on State Route 36 on the east side of Lonaconing.

When she noticed the line of children had stopped, Miss McCormick looked out a side window at the school and saw the flames. By the time she reached the front of the school to order the children back, the fire had broken through the front of the garage, burned through the telephone and power cables, leaving dangerous wires dangling, and had badly damaged two parked automobiles in the street. Six other automobiles, including three new models in the showroom of the garage, were destroyed by the fire.

The teachers herded the children back into the school and then took them out the rear of the school. The children, many of them bus students, walked over Watercliff Hill where some were picked up by their parents. Others were given rides to their homes and still others took a waiting school bus which had been blocked from reaching the school.

Miss McCormick said six teachers escorted the children, many of whom had to walk two miles or more to get home.

Murder Trial To End Today

Guard Acquitted Of Most Serious Count In Death Of Tavern Keeper

Ronald William (Pete) Guard, 52-year-old former constable in the Friendsville area, yesterday was found not guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court at Oakland on the most serious charge of first degree murder in the death early October 25 of a Friendsville tavern owner, but his fate on the counts of second degree murder and manslaughter, also included in the indictment, remained undecided last night.

Guard's attorneys moved for a verdict of not guilty of first degree murder after the state rested its case at 2:40 p.m. W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland, one of the three defense attorneys, argued that there was no premeditation, willfulness or deliberation in the actions of Guard which resulted in the death of George Raymond Schroyer, 40, shortly after midnight Saturday, October 24.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris of Cumberland and Associate Judges Neil C. Fraley of Oakland and D. K. McLaughlin of Hagerstown announced, following a 10-minute recess, that they were granting the motion.

Guard himself was the last of a parade of 18 witnesses heard by the three judges of the Fourth Judicial Circuit and some 200 curious spectators who crowded into the octagonal-shaped courtroom. Many spectators were standing in the three balconies and at the rear of the courtroom throughout the day.

Defendant Takes Stand

The former constable, who received his oath of office on April 28, was on the witness stand for about 40 minutes, 25 of them on cross - examination, before the case was recessed until 9:30 a.m. today. He left the stand at 4:42 p.m.

Guard showed emotion only near the close of his stay on the witness stand when Mr. Cobey asked his specifically:

"Did you intend to kill George Schroyer?"

The defendant appeared to weep momentarily as he answered:

"No sir."

In answer to a final cross-examination question from Walter W. Dawson, Oakland attorney who is assisting State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover, the defendant asserted that he was carrying his .38 calibre revolver at the time of the shooting in order to protect himself.

The defendant, whose home is on the Markleysburg Road about three miles northwest of Friendsville, related his actions on the day of October 24.

Guard Tells His Story

After a noonday dinner he had gone to Merle Hinebaugh's house in connection with his duties as constable, and had consumed two single shots of whisky and two beers. After buying family groceries for his wife and six children, Guard stopped off at Bud Fisher's tavern in Friendsville that night, where he said he drank four or five more beers while conversing with a friend.

It was on the way home from Fisher's tavern that he noticed a fight between Thomas Schroyer and Everett Dale DeWitt in front of the tavern which George Schroyer, a distant cousin of Thomas, operated.

While attempting to end this fight, Guard said that he got his revolver, which had been given him by Sheriff James E. Frantz, from the glove compartment of his car. He dropped it on the grass plot in front of the tavern while attempting to separate the two fighters, he said.

Soon after Guard found his gun, George Schroyer and Ray Coddington, a patron of the tavern, came plunging through the front door of the tavern with Schroyer on his back and Coddington lying on top of him.

Says Gun Went Off

Guard said he struck Coddington with the barrel of his revolver and it discharged accidently, the bullet going into Schroyer's head near the right ear.

Four of the 13 witnesses called by the state were medical men. They were Dr. Pedro Rivera Nieves, a Friendsville physician; Dr. James H. Feaster Jr. of Oakland, deputy medical examiner for Garrett County; Dr. Bene-

Roads Slick After Snow In District

Three Inches Falls In Garrett County

The snow which fell in Cumberland and area yesterday afternoon left the highways in a slippery and hazardous condition, and motorists were being reminded to use chains on their automobiles.

About three inches of snow was dumped on Garrett County during the day, and slightly over two inches fell in Cumberland and the immediate area.

Crews of the State Roads Commission were busy cindering, salting and plowing the snow-covered highways, especially west of Cumberland on U. S. Route 40.

A spokesman for the SRC said that west of here the highway was "well-covered" with snow and road conditions were slick from the Six-Mile House westward into Garrett County.

Chains Needed

Motorists were getting over the highway, although chains were being recommended by State Police. Martin Mountain, east of Cumberland, was reported to be in "bad" shape last night and crews of the SRC were dispatched to the area.

State Route 51 (Oldtown Road) was also reported to be in bad shape due to the snowfall. Beyond Oldtown the highway was in fairly good shape, the SRC spokesman said.

Ralph Weber, official weather observer at Oakland, said about three inches of snow had fallen in Garrett County during the afternoon but it was "playing out" last night as winds shifted from the southeast to the west. Roads were reported to be in a slippery condition as the mercury dipped to 25 degrees early in the evening.

2.1 Inches Here

Robert R. Golden, weather observer here, said 2.1 inches of snow fell in Cumberland. A few flakes fell about 6:30 a.m. and a heavy snow began about mid-afternoon, he said. The high temperature yesterday was 33 degrees, the low reading 28 and at 6 p.m. the temperature was 29 degrees above zero, said Mr. Golden.

Considerable cloudiness and rather cold temperatures with snow flurries are forecast in the mountains today. The high temperature is expected to be in the 30s in the west portion of the state, and 37-45 in the east portion.

B'er Chayim To Observe Chanuka Feast

The ancient Jewish festival, Chanuka, which symbolizes the fight for religious freedom, will be observed this weekend by B'er Chayim Congregation.

Rabbi Max Selinger, spiritual leader of the congregation, said services will begin at 8 p. m. Friday when a nine-branched candelabra will be at the pulpit.

He said the service is a homecoming service for young people who study out of town. Louise Mirkin will light the Sabbath candles, Harold Hersch will kindle the Menora, and Robert Millenson will recite the Kiddush prayer.

Following the services, an Oneg Shabbat will be held in the Temple vestry. The topic, "Jewish Experiences Away From Home," will be discussed by Louise Mirkin, Jay Kaplon, Robert Millenson, Harold Hersch, Mark Lazarus III, and Bert Lazarus.

Martin Sigel and Robert Weisman represent experiences of home town students. Refreshments will be served by the Sisterhood, said Rabbi Selinger.

On Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, a congregational Chanuka celebration is planned at the Temple. The program consists of original skits prepared by each class of the religious school under the supervision of their teachers.

Communal singing and a gift to the children will be part of the program. The last day of Chanuka will be observed by kindling all eight candles of the Menora at services on Friday, January 1, when Rabbi Selinger will preach on "An American Chanuka."

Returns Home

Clifford Van Rank, 59, of 11 Browning Street, who was reported missing since Friday, has returned home, city police said last night.

Food Poisoning Still Suspected

The Health Department is still probing the mass illness which hit Frostburg State Teachers College students last week but Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, reported yesterday there is still nothing to rule out food poisoning.

Preliminary reports, he said, seem to indicate contamination of most of the food samples submitted for laboratory tests.

The worst culprits, he added, seem to be the chocolate pie and ham. They have been sent to Baltimore for specific typing.

Health workers are studying report forms filled out by 44 of the 57 students who suffered diarrhea and vomiting — most of them about four hours after eating the Tuesday evening meal.

All of the students recovered and are at home for the Christmas holidays.

Three Families Routed By Fire

Lonaconing Garage, Apartments Destroyed; House Is Damaged

Fire, racing with amazing swiftness through a two-story frame and concrete block garage building, leveled the structure and badly damaged an adjoining house yesterday afternoon in Lonaconing.

The blaze apparently started in the rear of the garage near or in a furnace room and whipped through the building so swiftly that six occupants barely escaped with their lives.

Volunteer firemen said the flames were fed by gasoline, oil and paint in the garage.

The gas furnace apparently exploded, buckling the east wall of the structure and sending flames shooting out the large showroom window in front.

Children from nearby Central Elementary School had just been dismissed from their classes and many were forced to turn back to the school when the flames blocked their way.

The blaze badly burned two automobiles parked on State Route 36 in front of the garage and destroyed electric and telephone lines strung along the highway.

Power, Phones Out

The broken lines cut off both power and telephone service on the east side of the community through Midland and National. Utility crews were busy repairing the damage last night after the flames had been brought under control.

School authorities said there was no sign of the fire at 3:30 p. m. when the children were dismissed and four school buses had been loaded and had pulled away from the school. The power in the school building went off at 3:42 when the flames burned through the cables, showing the speed with which the fire sped through the garage and apartment building.

Mrs. Everett Spiker, wife of the Lonaconing automobile dealer who owned the garage; a secretary - bookkeeper, Mrs. Alice Smith; two garage mechanics, William Getson and Onas Hanekamp; and the occupants of a first floor apartment, Mrs. William Smith and her daughter, Jeanie Kay Smith, fled from the building, barely escaping with their lives and unable to save any belongings.

Owner Unaware Of Fire

Mr. Spiker, who was in Franklin at the time delivering an automobile, did not know of the fire until some time later when he heard a radio broadcast. He said last night his wife and the others were very fortunate to escape without injury, but that he and his wife had lost everything. He said he could not make an estimate of the amount of his loss, but added that it was partially insured.

Mrs. Spiker, showing the strain of the ordeal, said afterwards that she and Mrs. Alice Smith were trimming a small Christmas tree in the show window of the garage when she heard one of the mechanics exclaim, "Look, Bill, there's a fire!"

She said she ran to her upstairs apartment to get a small fire bomb extinguisher which she gave to Mr. Hanekamp to throw on the blaze. When this failed to halt the spreading flames, she ran back upstairs for another bomb just as the building seemed to explode.

Escapes From Blaze

Black, acrid smoke poured into her apartment through the air ducts and up the stairwell, choking and blinding her. She said she groped her way downstairs again, almost losing consciousness before getting out of the building.

Meanwhile, the bookkeeper telephoned the Goodwill Volunteer Fire Company and the town fire whistle sounded the alarm, moments before the flames destroyed the power and telephone lines. Mrs. Smith then picked up a book in which she was keeping records, and ran from the structure.

The two mechanics, realizing the flames were out of control also ran from the building, warning Mrs. William Smith in her downstairs apartment. Mrs. Smith's daughter, a sixth grade pupil at Central Elementary, had just entered their home when they were warned by the mechanics. Both fled as the flames broke through the front of the building.

Firemen from the Lonaconing company radioed for help, and

704 Phones Out Of Order After Blaze

Service To Be Restored Tonight

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company said last night 345 lines and 704 phones were out of commission as a result of the fire yesterday afternoon in Lonaconing, and repairmen were working around the clock to restore service in that section.

A spokesman for the phone company said the fire burned two cables which provide local service in the Lonaconing area, and a toll cable used for long distance calling.

The toll cable damage caused 80 long distance circuits to go out of service and some Cumberland service to Lonaconing, Piedmont and Westernport was impaired. Lonaconing circuits to Frostburg also were put out of service.

The phone company reported that two poles were damaged by the fire and may have to be replaced.

Repairmen began working immediately on the damaged wires, and toll service is expected to be resumed this morning. All service in the Lonaconing section is expected to be back to normal this evening.

Workmen restored service at pay stations and fire companies' telephones to handle any emergency calls.

Service in Cumberland was delayed somewhat yesterday evening due to the heavy volume of calls placed on the local central office dial equipment.

The phone company said that, because of persons calling about the fire and others calling because of the snow, there was some delay in getting a dial tone.

Mrs. Legge Succumbs At Local Hospital

Mrs. George W. Legge, 841 Braddock Road, who was executive secretary of the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross since May of 1956, died last night at 9:20 in Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient for six days.

Mrs. Legge, a graduate of Wyoming Seminary, Kingston, Pa., had been active in civic affairs for many years. For five years she served as the first Girl Scout commissioner here after the 1928 reorganization.

During her term of service, the Girl Scouts grew from one troop to 12 with Mrs. Legge then doing all the work, with no paid assistant on her staff. She also served on the Region Three camp committee of the Girl Scouts.

She had been in charge of the Fort Hill High School cafeteria from its beginning in 1936 until she accepted her Red Cross position. This was the first organized school cafeteria established in Allegany County.

Mrs. Legge headed the woman's division of the Community Chest Drive on two separate occasions. She was the first secretary of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

While still residing in Garrett County, she was secretary of the Red Cross there. Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William Elvin, Arlington, Va., and four grandchildren.

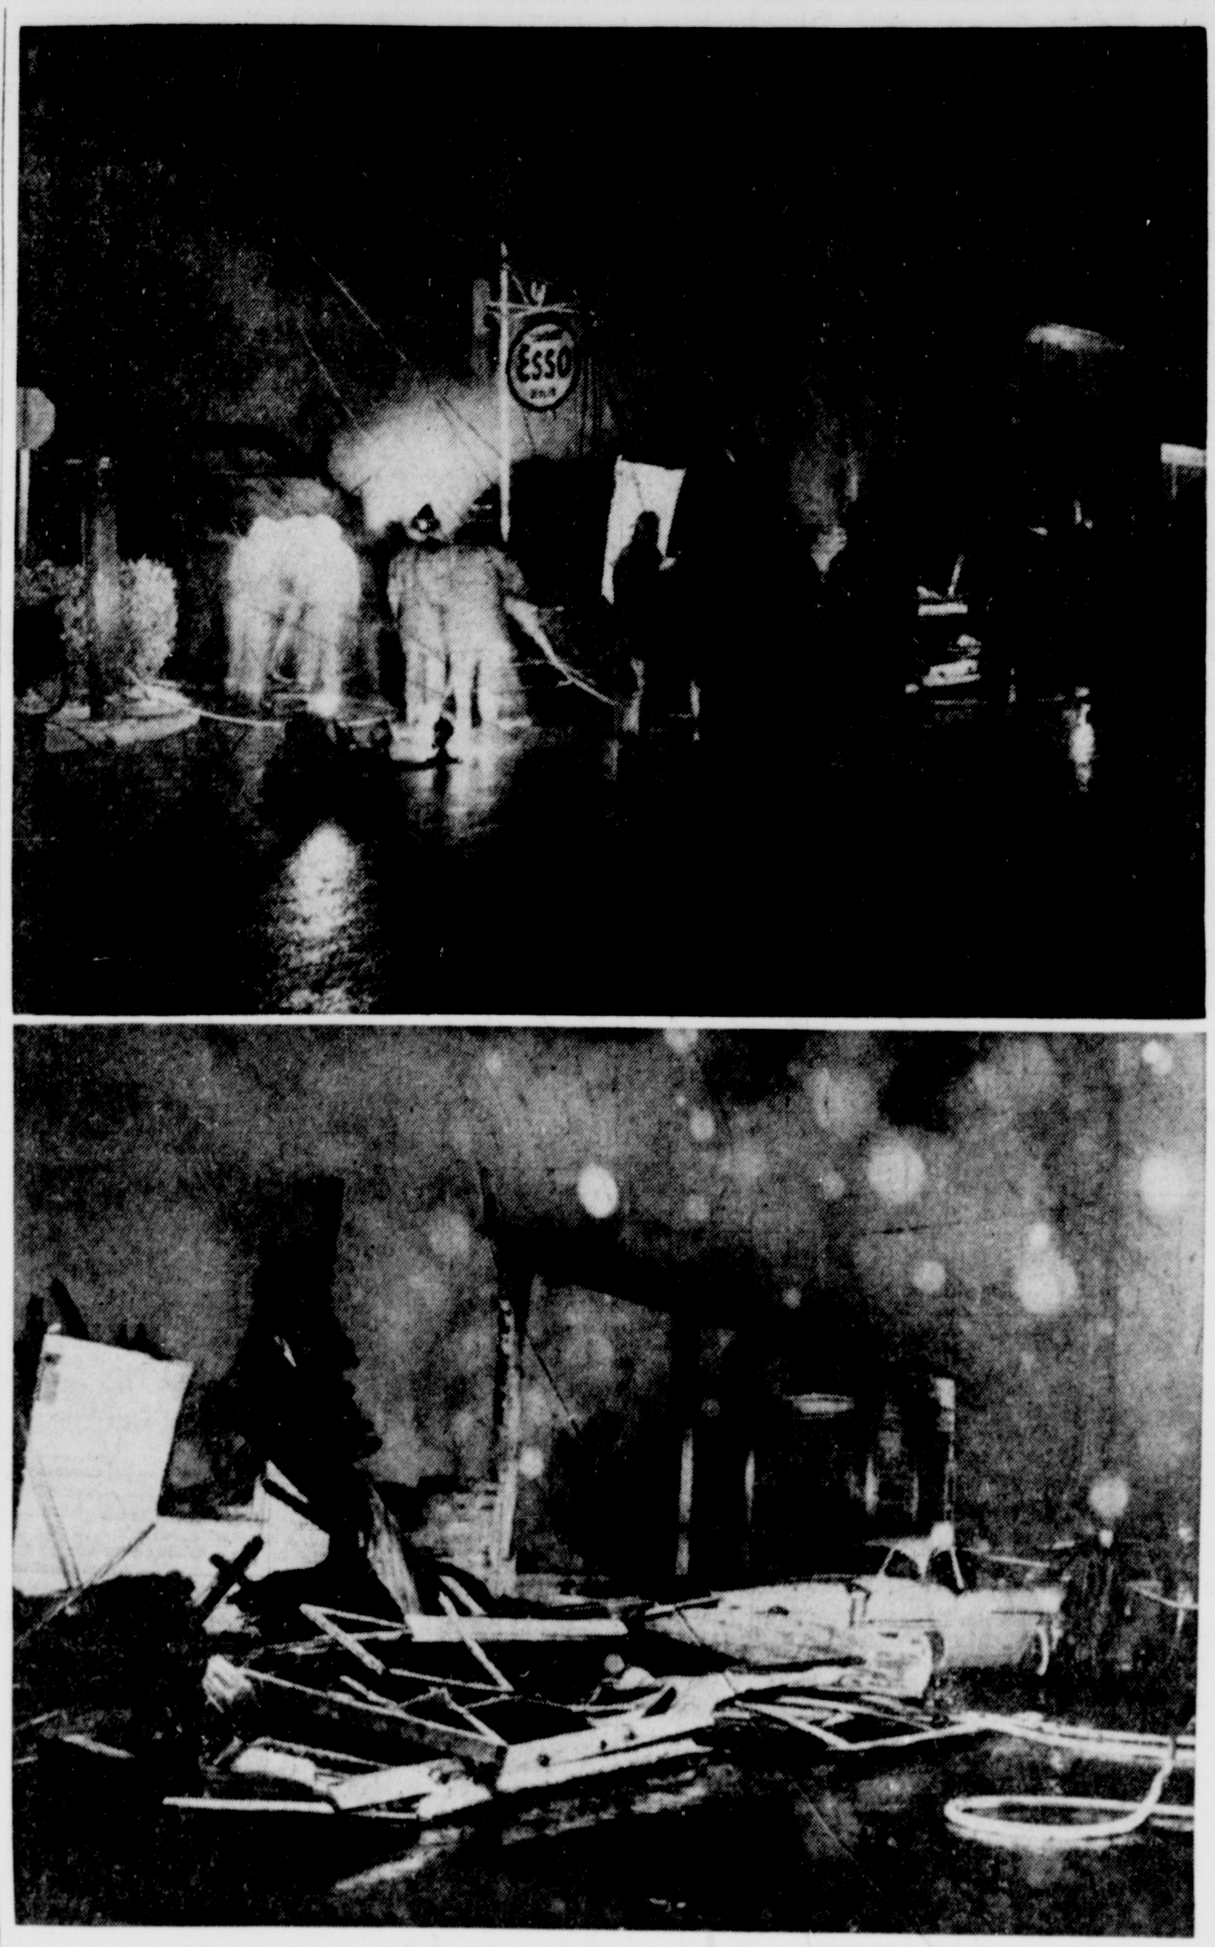
She was a member of First Presbyterian Church and the Women's Association of the church.

The body will be at the Silcox Funeral Home where friends will be received from 7 to 9 tonight. A funeral service will be conducted at First Presbyterian Church tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. The body will be taken to the Moore Funeral Home, Dubois, Pa., for a service at 2 p. m. Thursday, with burial in Beechwoods Cemetery there.

The family asked that memorials take the form of contributions to charity.

Still 'Critical'

John F. Monnett, 20, of Hyndman, Pa., who was injured in a one-car crash Sunday on Route 31 in Bedford County, was reported still in "critical" condition last night at Bedford County Memorial Hospital.



Blaze Levels Lonaconing Garage

A fire which apparently started in or near the furnace room swept with stunning speed through a garage and apartment building owned by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Spiker, Lonaconing, about 3:30 p. m. yesterday. The blaze leveled the two-story structure and badly damaged a neighbor's home, endangering pupils of nearby Central Elementary School who were passing by when the fire broke out. The top picture, a time exposure, shows firemen as they brought the blaze under control as night fell. The lower photograph surveys the damage to the buildings and an automobile parked in front of the garage. Three families who escaped the flames were left homeless. Blurs in lower photo were caused by snowflakes near camera lens.

Fire Engine Wrecked On Way To Fire

The pumper of Potomac Fire Company at Westernport yesterday afternoon was involved in an accident while en route to the fire in Lonaconing yesterday and was unable to be driven to the scene.

No one was reported injured in the truck-auto accident at Phoenix Hill, and the number one piece of equipment of the company was back in service last night.

Fire Chief Paul Michael said the pumper was being driven by Daniel Taylor. Ten other volunteers were ridng on the truck at the time.

He said the driver had rounded a curve on Phoenix Hill just beyond Franklin on Maryland Route 36 when the rear end of the truck swung around on the slippery road, hit an embankment and hit the rear end of a car operated by Mrs. Charles Liller of Barton, which was "hung up" due to the road condition.

The accident occurred about 4:15 p. m. Chief Michael commended the driver for keeping the damage to a minimum. A number of vehicles were "hung up" because of the slippery road, he said.

Missing Hunter Is Located In Kansas

ELKINS, W. Va. (UPI) — An Elkins hunter, missing since last Dec. 4, has been located in Kansas, State Police Sgt. V. C. Ware said Monday.

Asa Callison, 35, was last seen when he left his home to go deer hunting in a wooded area east of here.

Sgt. Ware declined to identify the Kansas town where Callison was located. He said when Callison was found "the case was cleared up as far as State Police are concerned."

Sgt. Ware said Callison's family had contacted him and he was reported well.

A search was started late Dec. 4 when Callison failed to return to his home as he had promised. It was continued as weather permitted.

Searchers found Callison's gun and coat in the vicinity of the Cheat River and the river was dragged, but no further clues were discovered.

Fire Forces Bus Pupils To Walk

Nearly 100 Central Elementary School children narrowly escaped injury or death when flames roared through a nearby garage and apartment building as the pupils were being dismissed from classes for the day at the Lonaconing school yesterday afternoon.

The garage and an adjoining building were destroyed by the fire, which was accompanied by an explosion which whipped the flames through the structure so swiftly that many lives were endangered.

Classes at the school were dismissed at 3:30 p.m., Miss Alice McCormick, principal of the school, said. Four bus loads had pulled away from the school, which is located about 100 feet from the burned buildings, and a line of children was moving in the direction of the garage when the fire was discovered.

The children and several of the buses pass directly in front of the garage which is located on State Route 36 on the east side of Lonaconing.

When she noticed the line of children had stopped, Miss McCormick looked out a side window at the school and saw the flames. By the time she reached the front of the school to order the children back, the fire had broken through the front of the garage, burned through the telephone and power cables, leaving dangerous wires dangling, and had badly damaged two parked automobiles in the street. Six other automobiles, including three new models in the showroom of the garage, were destroyed by the fire.

The teachers herded the children back into the school and then took them out the rear of the school. The children, many of them bus students, walked over Watercliff Hill where some were picked up by their parents. Others were given rides to their homes and still others took a waiting school bus which had been blocked from reaching the school.

Miss McCormick said six teachers escorted the children, many of whom had to walk two miles or more to get home.

Guard Acquitted Of Most Serious Count In Death Of Tavern Keeper

Ronald William (Pete) Guard, 52-year-old former constable in the Friendsville area, yesterday was found not guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court at Oakland on the most serious charge of first degree murder in the death early October 25 of a Friendsville tavern owner, but his fate on the counts of second degree murder and manslaughter, also included in the indictment, remained undecided last night.

Guard's attorneys moved for a verdict of not guilty of first degree murder after the state rested its case at 2:40 p.m. W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland, one of the three defense attorneys, argued that there was no premeditation, willfulness or deliberation in the actions of Guard which resulted in the death of George Raymond Schroyer, 40, shortly after midnight Saturday, October 24.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris of Cumberland and Associate Judges Neil C. Fraley of Oakland and D. K. McLaughlin of Hagerstown announced, following a 10-minute recess, that they were granting the motion.

Guard himself was the last of a parade of 18 witnesses heard by the three judges of the Fourth Judicial Circuit and some 200 curious spectators who crowded into the octagonal-shaped courtroom. Many spectators were standing in the three balconies and at the rear of the courtroom throughout the day.

Defendant Takes Stand

The former constable, who received his oath of office on April 28, was on the witness stand for about 40 minutes, 25 of them on cross - examination, before the case was recessed until 9:30 a.m. today. He left the stand at 4:42 p.m.

Guard showed emotion only near the close of his stay on the witness stand when Mr. Cobey asked his specifically:

"Did you intend to kill George Schroyer?"

The defendant appeared to weep momentarily as he answered:

"No sir."

In answer to a final cross-examination question from Walter W. Dawson, Oakland attorney who is assisting State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover, the defendant asserted that he was carrying his .38 calibre revolver at the time of the shooting in order to protect himself.

Guard Tells His Story

After a noonday dinner he had gone to Merle Hinebaugh's house in connection with his duties as constable, and had consumed two single shots of whisky and two beers. After buying family groceries for his wife and six children, Guard stopped off at Bud Fisher's tavern in Friendsville that night, where he said he drank four or five more beers while conversing with a friend.

It was on the way home from Fisher's tavern that he noticed a fight between Thomas Schroyer and Everett Dale DeWitt in front of the tavern which George Schroyer, a distant cousin of Thomas, operated.

While attempting to end this fight, Guard said that he got his revolver, which had been given him by Sheriff James E. Frantz, from the glove compartment of his car. He dropped it on the grass plot in front of the tavern while attempting to separate the two fighters, he said.

Soon after Guard found his gun, George Schroyer and Ray Coddington, a patron of the tavern, came plunging through the front door of the tavern with Schroyer on his back and Coddington lying on top of him.

Says Gun Went Off

Guard said he struck Coddington with the barrel of his revolver and it discharged accidently, the bullet going into Schroyer's head near the right ear.
